18TH YEAR. NO 41. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1901. TWO CENTS

GENERAL STRIKE BEING DISCUSSED

This It Is Thought, Is What Busies the Amalgamated Association Board.

WELLSVILLE GETS A TIP

Two Men Accosted By Guards This Morning Proved to Be Union Tin Workers—Strikers Going to Other Mills—Strike Three Weeks Old.

Pittsburg August 2.—(Special)—Though the advisory board of the Amalgamated Association is still in session, the impression prevails that instead of considering the terms of the steel trust any longer, the men are talking over the plans for a general strike. The board has been unable to accept the terms of Mr. Morgan and cannot secure any concessions.

"Surrender or fight" seems to be the cry of the trust, and the iron workers will take the last named, though it may mean the ruin of the union.

At Wellsville this morning the only occurrence out of the ordinary was the apprehension of two workmen who got off the 10 o'clock train and passed up through the town while waiting for the train to proceed down the river at noon. The two workmen had the appearance of being mill men, and they were soon surrounded by the pickets, who were at the train, with a number of potters from East Liverpool, and the new arrivals were closely questioned.

Their debate was cut short, however, for the men proved to be tinners and displayed union cards. That was all the pickets had to do with the men and they were taken to headquarters, where they were entertained until the train went down the river.

A colored man was accosted by the strikers shortly before noon and asked if he was a mill worker. He proved that he was not and was permitted to pass on.

A telephone message was received at headquarters this morning from Pittsburg, stating that a crew of seven workmen were bound to the Wellsville mill and were expected to reach here today. This caused the pickets to watch all the trains, but up to the hour of going to press no new men had arrived. It was stated that this crew was the one that was expected to arrive from Vandergrift, Pa., last Tuesday.

The force of pickets for the afternoon train was to be augmented for the East Liverpool station, as the men were expected on the train.

Quite a number of men who were employed in Wellsville before the strike will leave Monday morning for Pittsburg and Youngstown, where they have taken positions in independent mills. A list of these men will be prepared Saturday evening, as it is desired to have the addresses of the men before they leave town.

Some of the strikers are anxious to secure a position for Lemuel Shaffer, one of the recent acquisitions to the union. He came to Wellsville from a trip of several weeks' duration last Monday and while at the station is said to have been offered a position at the Wellsville mill as a heater. He refused the offer and immediately afterwards joined the ranks of the strikers. His wife has been under the care of a physician for several weeks. It is the intention of the men to obtain him employment as soon as possible. It is probable he will be located at the new Birmingham mill at Pittsburg, in which a number of Wellsville workmen will start work next week.

Several mill men will start to work at the Liverpool potteries next week, employment having been promised them a few days ago.

A number of the strikers have already secured work, and now that more men are expected to leave the city the question arises what will become of the pickets. This question was asked Organizer Griffiths this morning. He said that if the Wellsville men secured work elsewhere new union men would be sent to the town by headquarters to look after any union men that might be imported. He said all trains will be watched at all times until the strike is settled one way or the other.

It is thought possible that the officials of the mill are playing a waiting game and after more workmen leave the town new men would be sent to Wellsville to take the place of the strikers.

The strike will be three weeks old tomorrow.

Some of the Wellsville strikers do not believe the struggle they are now passing through will be settled soon. They say that matters have gone too far, and that the speedy stage of settlement is past. This is the sentiment expressed by one of the strikers last evening. Reports from the conference at Pittsburg received at Wellsville yesterday were to the effect that some of the members were not in attendance, and this was taken by some

BARREL OF WHISKEY

THE CAUSE OF TWO LAW SUITS IN LOCAL COURTS.

One of the Cases Promises Some Interesting Developments—Set for Monday Morning.

H. D. Huffman, proprietor of the Washington hotel, has instituted a suit in replevin in Justice McCarron's court against Constable C. D. Powell to recover a barrel of whisky which was levied on by the defendant to satisfy a claim of one of Hughes' creditors, who filed an attachment suit against him.

Huffman alleges that he is the owner of the whisky in question and that he placed it in Hughes' places of business for him to dispose of. Constable Miller served the papers on Constable Powell. The case will be heard August 10.

Another case in which a barrel of whisky is the bone of contention was filed last evening in Justice Rose's court. G. W. Meredith & Co. are the plaintiffs and Harry Hughes the defendant. The case is a peculiar one and it is difficult to conjecture what the developments will bring out.

The allegation is made that Hughes sold a barrel containing about 35 gallons of whisky to H. D. Huffman for $42 on July 31, after the constable had levied on the goods of Hughes to satisfy the claim against him of Meredith & Co. The suit now brought is for the purpose of recovering from Huffman the $42, which he agreed to pay Hughes for the whisky. A garnishee was issued by Justice Rose to prevent Hoffman paying the amount until the case has been tried. It is set for Monday morning.

OF INTEREST TO THE PUBLIC

East Liverpool's Largest and Best Newspaper Now Has a Circulation of 1,775 Copies Daily, Its Patronage Having More Than Doubled in Five Months.

Affidavits which tell their own story of the splendid progress which the Evening News Review is making are printed below. They show that when the present proprietors assumed control of the paper on March 1, 1901, just five months ago, the total number of copies printed in a day was 877. Today there are 1,825 copies printed. Deducting for exchanges and papers gratuitously distributed, the bonafide daily circulation is 1,775, or more than double what it was on the first of March. More than this, the size of the paper has been twice enlarged during that time, its news-gathering facilities increased and corresponding improvements made in every department. The record of growth and steady increase in popular favor which this paper has had and which it continues to enjoy is one which is unmatched in the history of jouralism in East Liverpool and which has rarely been equaled by any newspaper published in any city of the size of this one. The reason is readily apparent. The Evening News Review is clean, honest and enterprising. It covers the home field far more fully than any other paper. It is not only the largest and handsomest of the local papers, but the newsiest and best.

Its circulation has not stopped growing nor is it likely to do so. While East Liverpool lives and thrives this paper will keep pace with its progress. It is the journal which meets the wants of the public and it is therefore the favorite.

OGLEMAN NOT THE AGGRESSOR

Two Sides to the Story Concerning the Assault Made on Fred Grim.

ACCUSED BOY ARRESTED

Taken Before Acting Mayor McLane When He Denied Charges Made By Grim—Paid a Small Fine—Grim to Be Arrested.

George Ogleman, the colored lad of the East End, who was alleged to have attacked Fred Grim with a stake Wednesday evening without cause, and for whom a warrant was subsequently issued in the mayor's court, was given a hearing last night.

The young man was arrested by Officer Stafford while at work in the East End. He made no attempt at resistance and denied that he had been in hiding.

Ogleman is only 16 years of age and has always borne a reputation as an inoffensive and hard-working lad. Several of his fellow workmen accompanied him to the mayor's office and corroborated the story he told to Acting Mayor McLane.

The boy did not deny that he struck Grim with the stake, but claimed he acted in self-defense. The cause, he said, was that Grim threw a brick on Ogleman's hand, mashing one of his fingers. The colored lad claims he made no attempt to retaliate until later when Grim called him a vile name and threatened to crush his head with a brick. Then, he stated, he clinched with Grim and threw him down, when his antagonist began to bite him and finally sank his teeth into Ogleman's leg.

A grade stake was lying close by, and picking it up, the colored boy began using it on Grim's head to make him quit biting. He says he did not strike hard, as he had no desire to inflict any serious injury, but as the stake was sharp on the corners, it penetrated the scalp. He denies that Grim was rendered unconscious.

So straightforward did the accused

TO ABOLISH BELL ON THE CITY HALL

Movement Being Instituted Which Will Likely Do Away With the Relic.

DECLARED A NUISANCE

By the Firemen And Many of the City Officials—Gets Out of Repair And Is Not Reliable in Sounding Alarms.

The bell on the city hall, which for 20 years has served in almost as many capacities, will doubtless be abolished within a short period and used only on occasions of a special nature. While it may require the sanction of council to do away with the use of the bell for its present purposes, it is certain the matter will be taken before that body if it becomes necessary.

One of the reasons for the movement being instituted lies in the fact that the bell is virtually a nuisance. The electric connections with it are constantly getting out of repair and the city firemen have been put to no end of trouble in keeping the apparatus in working order. Perhaps the greatest of the many faults found with the bell is that it frequently causes misunderstandings by sounding alarms of fires at times when there is no occasion for it. Only a few days ago an alarm of fire was given, the bell having been set in motion by a telephone wire which became crossed with the department's wire.

Its use as a curfew amounts to little or nothing, as not one of a dozen of the children of the city ever hear it. Even the officers pay little attention to the bell, but depend on their watches to tell them when to look after the youngsters who remain about the streets after the time they are supposed to be at home.

The necessity of the bell ringing at the noon hour is of such little importance as to be unworthy of notice. Scores of whistles on the different factories about town keep the citizens informed as to the time to eat dinner, and clocks are now so cheap that very few families are without them.

It is also argued that even if the bell was correct in sounding alarms of fire, it need not be in use, as it simply tends to create excitement and in nowise benefits the people. The city officials consider that it is of no value and look upon the necessity of keeping the time-worn relic in repair as being almost ridiculous.

It is certain that if the matter should be left to the firemen to decide it would soon cease to be in use and most assuredly "curfew would not ring tonight."

PEOPLE HAD TO WALK

STREET CARS STOPPED WHEN PARKS WERE CROWDED.

Broken Machinery at the Power House Caused Inconvenience to the Public.

There was trouble at the power house of the East Liverpool Street Railway company last evening, the power being off almost four hours. This was caused by the equalizer on the governor breaking.

The accident occurred just at a time when travel on both lines was heavy, and without question the companies lost considerable money as a result of the break. Parts of the broken machinery were taken to a local machine shop, where temporary repairs were made, after which a new equalizer was ordered from St. Louis by telegraph. This is expected to arrive this evening and will be placed on the engine during the night.

Not only was the East Liverpool line tied up, but also the East Liverpool and Rock Springs line. Large crowds were at the Chester and Columbian parks, but after they understood the situation no complaints were made. At Rock Springs many telephoned to East Liverpool and had hacks sent to the park, while others walked home. The break was more serious than has occurred for several months, but today the company made arrangements to be prepared for such an accident in the future.

Lisbon, August 2.—(Special)—Marriage licenses have been issued to John G. Lewis, Jr., and Cora J. Mills, and Homer L. Lewis and Maggie Belle Reed, all of Wellsville; John Everth and Anna Schuler, Salem.

WEEK'S PROGRAM MOST COMPLETE

It Will Be Sent to the State Headquarters Within a Few Days.

NEW PLAN FOR REGISTERING

The General Committee Met Last Evening With All Members Present, And the Reports Made Showed the Members Had Not Been Idle.

When the general committee of arrangements of the Jr. O. U. A. M. met last evening to close up the details for the reception and entertainment of the delegates to the coming state convention there was a full representation and much interest manifest.

The committee on badges and souvenirs reported that an appropriate design had been selected and that the badges were expected this week.

The entrtainment committee has arranged for the use of Rock Springs park on Tuesday evening, September 10, and an excellent program is now being arranged. It is likely a part of Wednesday will be given over to a visit through the potteries.

A few sub-committees were appointed to look after several small matters, and they are expected to go to work at once.

Chairman Anderson, of the reception committee, has about completed arrangements for the care of his department of the work. A feature which will save a great deal of confusion is the plan suggested by Mr. Anderson to have every delegate upon reaching the city go at once to the convention hall and register his name and number and location of his council. The Daughters of America have also adopted the same plan.

The committee representing the Daughters of America will meet next Wednesday evening to complete the details for the reception and entertainment of their delegates. This committee is composed of Mrs. Marion Lowery, chairman, and Mrs. Ed Chandler, Miss Rachel Grafton, Ella Wycoff, Kate Baxter, Tillie Duncan, Mrs. Homer Owen.

The representatives of the auxiliary and the committees of the Juniors will act in conjunction, and when they have finished their work it is expected that nothing will be overlooked.

There yet remain a few details to complete, and it will be several days before the program is ready for the public.

HEIR TO MILLIONS

SELLS OUT HIS CLAIM FOR THE SUM OF $30.

Jonathan Whitacre, of Hanoverton, Evidently Tired of Waiting for an English Fortune.

Lisbon, August 2.—(Special)—Jonathan Whitacre, of Hanoverton, one of the legal heirs of Edward Whitacre, of England, has sold one-fourth of his interest in the estate, to James L. Estep for $30.

The Whitacre estate is said to be worth several million dollars. A great deal of time and money have been spent by the American heirs in trying to get it. It does not appear what share of the estate Jonathan Whitacre is entitled to.

The agreement between Estep and Whitacre is filed in the recorder's office.

A man named Whitacre, who is a preacher, has spent several months here looking up records. He has also made trips to England on the matter.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS HELD

Officials Chosen for the Knights of Columbus—Will Go to Steubenville.

At the meeting of the local council, Knights of Columbus, held last evening, special elections were held to fill three unexpired terms. J. H. Grafton was made Grand Knight, J. J. Weisend was elected to the position of Deputy Grand Knight and Charles L. Gallaher was chosen advocate.

It was decided to take part in the joint meeting to be held at Steubenville September 22.

At this meeting all three degrees will be conferred by councils from Dennison, Wheeling, East Liverpool, Wellsville and other points.

EAST END

CROWDS DISAPPOINTED

No Moving Pictures at Columbian Park, on Account of No Electric Power.

Owing to the accident at the power house last evening it was impossible for the Passion Play moving pictures to be presented at Columbian park last evening, as was proposed. The picture machinery is operated by electricity, and just when the current was about to be turned on the break occurred. After the situation was understood those present were told of the accident and that no representation of the play could be given.

The grand stand was almost taxed to its capacity, and to those who had purchased reserved seats new checks were given, they being asked to return this evening. Extra cars were placed on the road, being operated from the Diamond, and these were well filled when going to the park. In fact, the attendance on the opening night was larger than was expected.

NEW CARS WILL BE BIGGER

Will Also Have Greater Horse Power And Can Run Faster.

The new cars for the East Liverpool Street Railway company, which are expected here soon, will be the fastest on the road. Upon their arrival they will be in readiness to be placed on the road, the motors and trucks being placed under the body at the factory. There will be four motors under these cars, having a combined force of 140 horse-power. Each motor will be 35 horse-power.

The cars will be 28 feet long, which is eight feet longer than any other car now owned by the company. They will each have a seating capacity of about 70 persons.

Postal Receipts Fell Off.

The report of the business of the East End postoffice for the month of July was completed last evening by Postmaster William E. Baird. A decrease in the receipts over the preceding month is noted. The receipts from the sale of stamps and wrappers amounted to $139.92, while the money order business amounted to about $1,200. This is a decrease of about $300 over the reports of the two preceding months.

New Car May Run Sunday.

It will be several days before the new double truck car will be placed on the East Liverpool street railway line. The trial trip over the entire road yesterday was highly satisfactory to the officials, and this morning a force of carpenters were placed at work making im provements to the body of the car. It is probable, said Superintendent Reed, that the car will be operated on Sunday.

Repairing a Damaged Car.

Carpenters are making repairs on the freight car of the East Liverpool street railway line which was damaged in an accident on Franklin street several days ago. It will be necessary to make a complete new vestibule for this car, the old one being damaged so that it could not be used.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Miss Mary Thompson, of the East End, is visiting friends at Smith's Ferry.

The trolley wire on Mulberry street, near the railroad crossing, was repaired this morning.

Several small real estate deals are pending in the East End, two of which, it is said, will be closed tomorrow evening. These sales are for building lots.

Mrs. W. W. Maxwell, of Carbon Black, near Butler, Pa., is a guest at the home of T. O. Terrence, Ravine street. She is the mother of Captain Terrence, of the East End fire station.

Contractor McLaughlin has a large force of men at work making the fill about the abutments for the new bridge, which will span Dry Run in the East End. It will be several weeks before the contract is completed.

PARK SCHEME DEAD

An Alliance Project That Promised Much Will Not Be Carried Out.

According to an Alliance paper the scheme to build the much-talked-of park between Alliance and Sebring has followed in the trail of the recently projected cross-county railway between East Liverpool and Salem. The Review says:

C. B. Kennerdell, the originator and promoter of the Kendale park, has gone out of the park business. His decision to give up the establishment of a beautiful park in Bluebell swamp with a $10,000 hotel, mammoth dancing pavilion, ball grounds, summer theater, driving park, electric yachts, Egyptian bridges, etc., was aided by Constable Jim Brown, of Sebring, at the instance of some 24 laborers, who had been engaged to clear up the grounds, and who failed to receive anything more than promises for their labor on Saturday evening. Kennerdell promised to pay Monday and then Tuesday, and Wednesday he left for Salem without paying, and the men could not wait longer.

When he started in he had $30,000 (so he said) to spend on the grounds and now he looks like 30 cents. He had plenty of beer, but no boodle, and the cold grasping man who dug up stumps all day wanted boodle. The Pennsylvania company will not build the hotel nor will the street railway company pay nickels to land their passengers there. The park bubble busted.

The grounds of which a park was to be made are not paid for—only $200 having been paid for an option which is good until the eighth of this month.

STRIKE IS CRITICAL

Feared Opponents to Unionism In Combine Have Upperhand.

THE STRIKE MAY SPREAD.

Believed Men In Other Mills of U. S. Steel Corporation May Be Called Out—As Far as Made Public, No Reply Was Received From Morgan.

Pittsburg, Aug. 2.—Unless some word is received from the officials of the United States Steel corporation soon the steel workers' strike may become the greatest that has ever marked the history of the Amalgamated association. No reply to the request of the association had come last night. The executive board waited until 6:30 o'clock for a message from Mr. Morgan. After the members left the executive officers remained in the headquarters until nearly 8 o'clock, still hoping that some word would reach them there. Then they went home.

There is little attempt on the part of the members of the board to conceal their chagrin and disappointment over the present state of affairs. When the conference was called to take up Mr. Morgan's propositions it was fully expected that the strike would soon be over, and the strained relations between the workers and the manufacturers ended. It was supposed, they say, that the spirt of conciliation that had been manifested by the general officers of the steel trust was genuine. The unaccountable silence that has marked the New York office of the trust since the workers sent their message on Tuesday night has caused surprise. It is now feared that the element in the official family of the United States Steel corporation that is antagonistic to organized labor has secured full sway and that it will be impossible to secure an adjustment of the difficulties pending without further struggles and a bitter war between the workers and the manufacturers.

More Critical Than Ever.

Information of the most reliable nature was secured that the officials of the Amalgamated association regard the strike situation as more critical now than at any other time. Matters have gone so far that the executive board has begun to consider plans for renewing the battle with greater force and energy than ever, extending the strike into every union mill owned or controlled by the United States Steel corporation and bringing every possible influence to bear on the heads of the trust in order to bring about a settlement on what they consider reasonably fair terms. It is impossible to secure this, they say, without a conference with the heads of the operating departments of the companies that have become involved in the strike. It was plainly intimated that the propositions of Mr. Morgan and his associates, while bearing on their face evidences of peace, lacked plain statements regarding the position of the union men in their relations to the trust mills. Details of the utmost importance to the organized men were omitted and would have to be arranged for through direct dealings with the operating department of the trust, before any agreement could be put in force.

Attended a Big Meeting.

One of the most significant actions of the Amalgamated officials in view of this critical situation was the attendance of practically all the vice presidents now in Pittsburg at a mass meeting of the strikers of the Painter mill of the American Steel Hoop company. The meeting was held in Metropolitan hall, in Steuben street, West End, last night. It was largely attended, and addresses were made by all of the officials present. The men on strike were enthusiastic and greeted the vice presidents with much warmth. Nothing of importance was developed during the meeting, but the workers were urged to stand firm and keep away from the mills pending a settlement of the difficulties. The utmost confidence was expressed in the final outcome of the strike and it was declared that if the battle was to be continued, the same results would be obtained in the end.

There was a strong rumor about the workers' headquarters last night that a message had been received from New York. This message was said, however, to be unsatisfactory. President Shaffer said that he had nothing to give out, however. He declined to discuss any of the features of the strike, but maintained an apparent feeling of hopefulness when talking to the newspaper men. After President Shaffer left his office he disappeared suddenly from view. It is believed that he met some of the officials of the United States Steel trust who were in Pittsburg. Who these were could not be learned.

It was rumored late last night that President Charles M. Schwab, of the United States Steel corporation, was in Pittsburg. It was said that he had left New York for the west. So far as could be learned, Mr. Schwab did not arrive on any of the trains from the east and was not in any of the hotels or clubs in the city. Joseph E. Schwab, assistant to the president, had been in Pittsburg for the past two days.

THIEVES WERE DEFIED;

MILL WAS BURNED.

Orleans, Ind., Aug. 2.—Heise & Sons' flouring mill at Saltillo, about nine miles east of here, was destroyed by fire. Several days ago the proprietors of the mill found a note, informing them that unless they put a certain sum of money in a sack and left it at a given point their mill would be burned. A sack filled with buggy washers was deposited and men lay in wait several hours, but no person approached the sack. It disappeared shortly, however, and the mill was burned to the ground.

PROSPEROUS SEBRING

"Our town is an illustration of the advantages of a protective tariff," said J. E. Finney, a commercial traveler of Sebring, to a Washington Post man, "at least so far as protection to the pottery industry is concerned, and this is true of the entire Ohio valley, with East Liverpool as a center. Two years ago the site of Sebring was a cultivated wheat field. Today it is a thriving community with a population of more than 2,500. When the McKinley bill was passed only 30 per cent of the porcelain used in the United States was of home manufacture.

"Protective tariff gave the first great stimulus to the industry, and now 70 per cent of the pottery used in the United States is produced in our own country. There are now 49 potteries, most of them the largest in the United States, in the Ohio valley, all in the president's old congressional district. Sebring is in Mahoning county, in which the president was born, about 20 miles east of Canton. The town was established by the five brothers forming the Sebring Manufacturing company, and is a more modern community than Pullman. Porcelain goods only are manufactured there, nearly all the residents having some connection with the business.

"The manufacturers laid out the streets, planted shade trees, built a $15,000 church for employes and installed the water works and electric light plant, purchasing 1,500 acres for the city and selling off lots as an encouragement to employes to own their own homes. There are no company stores similar to those found in many other so-called 'model' manufacturing communities resulting from the development of large industrial enterprises."

HARRY C. MASON DEAD.

He Was Formerly Speaker of Ohio House of Representatives.

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—A telegram from Prescott, Ariz., announced the death there of Harry C. Mason, formerly speaker of the Ohio house of representatives and a well-known attorney of this city. Not long after the close of the session of the legislature Mason's health failed and he withdrew from politics, as well as from the practice of the law. Death was due to consumption. Deceased was 34 years of age.

OUST NEGRO FROM POLITICS

Declared Purpose, if Successful, of Maryland Democrats, In Their Platform Adopted.

Baltimore, Aug. 2.—The Democratic state convention declared that the purpose of the party, if sucessful in the coming election, is to elimnate the negro from politics in Maryland if such a thing be possible under the constitution of the state. Upon this the paramount issue of the campaign will stand the candidates nominated for state offices and those chosen in the various county and district conventions as candidates for places in the legislature of 1902, which body will elect a United States senator to succeed George L. Wellington. That his sucessor, in the event of Democratic victory, will be Arthur Pue Gorman is settled beyond question, although no formal announcement of his candidacy has as yet been made.

The other planks in the platform reaffirm the devotion of the local party to the principles enunciated by Thomas Jefferson; assert that Democratic control is necessary to the welfare of the state; commend the administration of John Walter Smith as governor; pledge the party to amend the oyster and school laws in such manner as may seem proper; declare the course of the governor in calling a special session of the legislature and the action of that body in passing laws to limit the exercise of the right of franchise to those who are able to read and write to be patriotic in the extreme; denounce the federal authorities for frauds in irregularities in the late federal census; commend the state authorities for the manner in which a recount of the people was made, and pledge the party to the adoption of such laws as will make the primary elections as fair as those held under the general election laws.

For the offices of controller and clerk of the court of appeals Dr. Joshua W. Hering, of Carroll, and J. Frank Turner, of Talbot, were nominated to succeed themselves.

PROSPEROUS SEBRING

"Our town is an illustration of the advantages of a protective tariff," said J. E. Finney, a commercial traveler of Sebring, to a Washington Post man, "at least so far as protection to the pottery industry is concerned, and this is true of the entire Ohio valley, with East Liverpool as a center. Two years ago the site of Sebring was a cultivated wheat field. Today it is a thriving community with a population of more than 2,500. When the McKinley bill was passed only 30 per cent of the porcelain used in the United States was of home manufacture.

"Protective tariff gave the first great stimulus to the industry, and now 70 per cent of the pottery used in the United States is produced in our own country. There are now 49 potteries, most of them the largest in the United States, in the Ohio valley, all in the president's old congressional district. Sebring is in Mahoning county, in which the president was born, about 20 miles east of Canton. The town was established by the five brothers forming the Sebring Manufacturing company, and is a more modern community than Pullman. Porcelain goods only are manufactured there, nearly all the residents having some connection with the business.

"The manufacturers laid out the streets, planted shade trees, built a $15,000 church for employes and installed the water works and electric light plant, purchasing 1,500 acres for the city and selling off lots as an encouragement to employes to own their own homes. There are no company stores similar to those found in many other so-called 'model' manufacturing communities resulting from the development of large industrial enterprises."

HARRY C. MASON DEAD.

He Was Formerly Speaker of Ohio House of Representatives.

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—A telegram from Prescott, Ariz., announced the death there of Harry C. Mason, formerly speaker of the Ohio house of representatives and a well-known attorney of this city. He became prominent as a leader in the anti-Hanna senatorial fight in 1898, while he was the presiding officer of the lower house.

Not long after the close of the session of the legislature Mason's health failed and he withdrew from politics, as well as from the practice of the law. Death was due to consumption. Deceased was 34 years of age.

TWO WOMEN AND MAN LYNCHED FOR MURDERS.

Carrollton, Miss., Aug. 2.—The murder of Mr. and Mrs. Taliafero culminated in the lynching of Betsie McCray, her son, Belfield McCray, and daughter, Ida McCray, al colored.

OUST NEGRO FROM POLITICS

Declared Purpose, if Successful, of Maryland Democrats, In Their Platform Adopted.

Baltimore, Aug. 2.—The Democratic state convention declared that the purpose of the party, if sucessful in the coming election, is to elimnate the negro from politics in Maryland if such a thing be possible under the constitution of the state. Upon this the paramount issue of the campaign will stand the candidates nominated for state offices and those chosen in the various county and district conventions as candidates for places in the legislature of 1902, which body will elect a United States senator to succeed George L. Wellington. That his sucessor, in the event of Democratic victory, will be Arthur Pue Gorman is settled beyond question, although no formal announcement of his candidacy has as yet been made.

The other planks in the platform reaffirm the devotion of the local party to the principles enunciated by Thomas Jefferson; assert that Democratic control is necessary to the welfare of the state; commend the administration of John Walter Smith as governor; pledge the party to amend the oyster and school laws in such manner as may seem proper; declare the course of the governor in calling a special session of the legislature and the action of that body in passing laws to limit the exercise of the right of franchise to those who are able to read and write to be patriotic in the extreme; denounce the federal authorities for frauds in irregularities in the late federal census; commend the state authorities for the manner in which a recount of the people was made, and pledge the party to the adoption of such laws as will make the primary elections as fair as those held under the general election laws.

For the offices of controller and clerk of the court of appeals Dr. Joshua W. Hering, of Carroll, and J. Frank Turner, of Talbot, were nominated to succeed themselves.

ARMY TRANSPORT DISABLED.

Was Drifting at Mercy of Winds—Tug Went to Search For Her—Volunteers Left Her to Get Aid.

San Francisco, Aug. 2.—The transport Lennox is disabled and, as far as known here, drifting at the mercy of wind and sea, some 300 miles southwest of San Francisco, while her passengers and crew are on short rations waiting for assistance.

The big army tug Slocum left to search for the crippled steamer. Volunteers from the transport picked up at sea brought the news.

SUBSCRIBERS WHO ARE GOING AWAY FOR THE SUMMER MONTHS CAN HAVE THE EVENING NEWS REVIEW SENT TO THEM BY NOTIFYING THIS OFFICE OF THEIR OUT-OF-TOWN ADDRESS, EITHER BY TELEPHONE OR POSTAL CARD, FOR 10 CENTS A WEEK CHANGE OF ADDRESS MAY BE MADE AS OFTEN AS DESIRED. WHEN A CHANGE IS ORDERED BOTH THE OLD AS WELL AS THE NEW ADDRESS SHOULD BE GIVEN.

PUBLIC APPRECIATION.

The News Review today prints a statement that will interest its friends and patrons. The affidavits on our first page show that the daily circulation of this paper has more than doubled in the five months ending August 1. That circulation is mainly in East Liverpool—a fact that advertisers who wish to make their announcements where their customers and neighbors will see them will appreciate. That they do appreciate it is shown by the condition of our advertising columns, which are crowded with the announcements of the business men of this city. The News Review is a home newspaper. It covers the home field more fully and more satisfactorily than any other journal. That explains its phenomenal growth. That growth has not stopped; it has merely got a good start. New subscribers are being added daily, and there is room for all who come. Enterprise, reliability and progress are its characteristics. Watch it grow!

ART IN ADVERTISING.

London would seem to be a good field for an enterprising newspaper. There are great journals there, but they are run to suit the proprietors rather than their patrons. This is illustrated by an agitation which is now on to induce them to discontinue their antiquated style of printing advertising matter. The merchants who buy advertising space contend that they should have something to say as to the type to be used and the style in which it should be set to make it attractive. But the newspaper proprietors reply that it would "Americanize" their columns, and that would be something dreadful. From the typographical appearance of even the best of the London papers there is no printer who would not acknowledge that a little Americanizing and modernizing would do them good.

Art in advertising has reached a higher development in this country than anywhere else in the world. The advertising pages of some of the popular mazagines, for example, are by no means among the least interesting and attractive features of their contents. The same is true of the newspapers. A paper which should attempt to get along without advertisements would be stale, flat and unprofitable. The public does a deal of buying and it looks to the newspapers for news about the class of goods it wants to buy. The merchant who succeeds in making his invitation to buyers most attractive will attract most customers. On this subject the Chicago Record Herald says:

"The genius and cleverness of the American advertiser have revolutionized commerce and industry. It is today the most striking feature of American ascendancy in the world of trade. The creation and invention of new advertising ideas and schemes for placing the merits of new commodities before the consuming classes is a profession that now engages some of the best talent in the land. It is an American art, full of the dynamics of twentieth century commercial prowess. Even London cannot resist it; she must finally surrender."

THE ISSUE IN MARYLAND.

The paramount issue in the political campaign in Maryland the coming fall, according to the Democrats of that state, is the disfranchisement of 60,000 negro voters. It is so proclaimed in the platform adopted at the state convention, and a dispatch from Baltimore states that there was not a dissenting vote, the shameless proposal being received with applause and every evidence of cordial approcal. The success of the Democrats at the polls, as they themselves declare, means that a large body of its citizens shall have no voice in the state's affairs.

The fact that the proposition is to defy and annul the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States does not worry these Marylanders. They respect the federal law so long as it does not interfere with their own wishes and inclinations and no longer. The most illiterate white man in Maryland—and there are many such there—can exercise the right of suffrage, while the most intelligent and best educated negro cannot. This is the decree which these friends of human liberty propose to put into effect. Should they attempt to carry out their purpose it would appear that it is time to settle the question whether the laws of the nation or the dictates of Maryland Democratic leaders are supreme.

President McKinley will attend the G. A. R. encampment. His heart is with his old comrades, and his presence among them will contribute not a little to the success of the veterans' gathering.

In Mississippi they have now taken to lynching women. There is no need for missionaries to go abroad in search of heathen.

For the time being, the weather grumbler's occupation is gone.

OBITUARY.

Dr. John J. Yates.

Salem, Aug. 2.—Dr. John J. Yates, the oldest citizen of Salem, is dead, of heart disease. He was born in Lancaster county, Pa., Jan. 18, 1813. His parents were George and Elizabeth Burns Yates, his mother being a cousin of John Burns of Gettysburg fame. He lived in Pennsylvania until his eighteenth year, when he removed to this county. For 60 years he had been one of the best known physicians in Eastern Ohio.

GLEANINGS of the Day —In and about the— Local POTTERIES.

Evert Rose, an employe of the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, is being guyed unmercifully by his fellow workmen at present. Yesterday afternoon he discovered something out in the river and thought he would investigate it. He secured a skiff and started out, but when about 50 yards from the thing thought he had better not venture too close and threw a club. Returning to the plant he told the boys that it was some kind of an animal and John Stoffel and Irwin Allison took the skiff and went out to it. Upon reaching the supposed animal they discovered that it was nothing more than a log which some one had anchored in the river.

Work at the Lisbon pottery is rapidly progressing, and the plant will soon be ready for operation. The east section, which is two stories high, is now ready for the roof, and the middle part will be one story high, and it almost ready to roof. The west end of the building will be three stories and the workmen are now laying brick on the second story. The big boilers and engines have arrived and also considerable other stuff, including moulds for making ware. The straw house, which is a frame building, has been completed, and is a structure about 60 feet in length. The molds will be made in this building pending the completion of the pottery plant.

A company to manufacture pottery in New Castle, Pa., has been formed. The capital stock is $100,000. Among the stockholders are J. P. H. Cunningham, E. I. Phillips, Wm. G. Dunn, Andrew Fleckinstein, Captain M. S. Marquis, Edward Norris, William Marquis, all of that city, and H. B. Harvard, of East Liverpool.

A number of girls have made application for admission to the potters' local union at Sebring, now that they are admitted on an equality with the men. Several names will be acted upon at the next regular meeting.

Miss Ella Binnie, who formerly worked at the Oliver China company, but who resigned her position and went to her home in Wellsville, has returned to Sebring and accepted a position in the French China company.

Mr. McCullough, fireman at the Sebring pottery, and his brother George, fireman at the French China company, have left for Missouri, called there by the illness of their mother.

F. W. Fowler, of the Union Potteries company, was in East Liverpool yesterday on business. He arrived here in the afternoon and left for Allegheny on the late train in the evening.

Thomas Croxall will resign his position as handler at the E. M. Knowles pottery tomorrow night and on Monday will accept a similar one at C. C. Thompson's.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Kuckert, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, were in the city yesterday and placed an order for two cars of ware with the National China company.

Miss Stella Johnson has her old place at the Oliver China company in Sebring, after an extended absence in one of the potteries in East Liverpool.

Ed Wyman, a printer at the Sebring pottery, is working out his two weeks' notice. He has accepted a place at Thompson's, East Liverpool.

The ground has been staken out for two new kilns at the C. C. Thompson pottery, and work on the erection of the addition will be started at once.

Reuben Hamilton has resumed his duties at the C. C. Thompson pottery, after being off duty for several days on account of illness.

Miss Irene Bricelin has resigned her position in the glost warehouse at Burford's and accepted a similar one at Knowles'.

Harry Suter has resigned his position in the decorating department of the Dresden and accepted one at E. M. Knowles'.

Blanche Engle, of East Liverpool, has accepted a place with the printers of the Sebring pottery.

Ed Anderson, of Evansville, Ind., has accepted a position as finisher at the Brunt pottery.

Sidney Burchill yesterday accepted a position as turner at E. M. Knowles'.

John Kircher, of Peoria, Ill., has accepted at position at Brunt's.

That circulation is mainly in East Liverpool—a fact that advertisers who wish to make their announcements where their customers and neighbors will see them will appreciate. That they do appreciate it is shown by the condition of our advertising columns, which are crowded with the announcements of the business men of this city. The News Review is a home newspaper. It covers the home field more fully and more satisfactorily than any other journal. That explains its phenomenal growth. That growth has not stopped; it has merely got a good start. New subscribers are being added daily, and there is room for all who come. Enterprise, reliability and progress are its characteristics. Watch it grow!

ART IN ADVERTISING.

London would seem to be a good field for an enterprising newspaper. There are great journals there, but they are run to suit the proprietors rather than their patrons. This is illustrated by an agitation which is now on to induce them to discontinue their antiquated style of printing advertising matter. The merchants who buy advertising space contend that they should have something to say as to the type to be used and the style in which it should be set to make it attractive. But the newspaper proprietors reply that it would "Americanize" their columns, and that would be something dreadful. From the typographical appearance of even the best of the London papers there is no printer who would not acknowledge that a little Americanizing and modernizing would do them good.

Art in advertising has reached a higher development in this country than anywhere else in the world. The advertising pages of some of the popular mazagines, for example, are by no means among the least interesting and attractive features of their contents. The same is true of the newspapers. A paper which should attempt to get along without advertisements would be stale, flat and unprofitable. The public does a deal of buying and it looks to the newspapers for news about the class of goods it wants to buy. The merchant who succeeds in making his invitation to buyers most attractive will attract most customers. On this subject the Chicago Record Herald says:

"The genius and cleverness of the American advertiser have revolutionized commerce and industry. It is today the most striking feature of American ascendancy in the world of trade. The creation and invention of new advertising ideas and schemes for placing the merits of new commodities before the consuming classes is a profession that now engages some of the best talent in the land. It is an American art, full of the dynamics of twentieth century commercial prowess. Even London cannot resist it; she must finally surrender."

THE ISSUE IN MARYLAND.

The paramount issue in the political campaign in Maryland the coming fall, according to the Democrats of that state, is the disfranchisement of 60,000 negro voters. It is so proclaimed in the platform adopted at the state convention, and a dispatch from Baltimore states that there was not a dissenting vote, the shameless proposal being received with applause and every evidence of cordial approcal. The success of the Democrats at the polls, as they themselves declare, means that a large body of its citizens shall have no voice in the state's affairs.

The fact that the proposition is to defy and annul the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States does not worry these Marylanders. They respect the federal law so long as it does not interfere with their own wishes and inclinations and no longer. The most illiterate white man in Maryland—and there are many such there—can exercise the right of suffrage, while the most intelligent and best educated negro cannot. This is the decree which these friends of human liberty propose to put into effect. Should they attempt to carry out their purpose it would appear that it is time to settle the question whether the laws of the nation or the dictates of Maryland Democratic leaders are supreme.

President McKinley will attend the G. A. R. encampment. His heart is with his old comrades, and his presence among them will contribute not a little to the success of the veterans' gathering.

In Mississippi they have now taken to lynching women. There is no need for missionaries to go abroad in search of heathen.

For the time being, the weather grumbler's occupation is gone.

GLEANINGS of the Day —In and about the— Local POTTERIES.

Evert Rose, an employe of the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, is being guyed unmercifully by his fellow workmen at present. Yesterday afternoon he discovered something out in the river and thought he would investigate it. He secured a skiff and started out, but when about 50 yards from the thing thought he had better not venture too close and threw a club. Returning to the plant he told the boys that it was some kind of an animal and John Stoffel and Irwin Allison took the skiff and went out to it. Upon reaching the supposed animal they discovered that it was nothing more than a log which some one had anchored in the river.

Work at the Lisbon pottery is rapidly progressing, and the plant will soon be ready for operation. The east section, which is two stories high, is now ready for the roof, and the middle part will be one story high, and it almost ready to roof. The west end of the building will be three stories and the workmen are now laying brick on the second story. The big boilers and engines have arrived and also considerable other stuff, including moulds for making ware. The straw house, which is a frame building, has been completed, and is a structure about 60 feet in length. The molds will be made in this building pending the completion of the pottery plant.

A company to manufacture pottery in New Castle, Pa., has been formed. The capital stock is $100,000. Among the stockholders are J. P. H. Cunningham, E. I. Phillips, Wm. G. Dunn, Andrew Fleckinstein, Captain M. S. Marquis, Edward Norris, William Marquis, all of that city, and H. B. Harvard, of East Liverpool.

A number of girls have made application for admission to the potters' local union at Sebring, now that they are admitted on an equality with the men. Several names will be acted upon at the next regular meeting.

Miss Ella Binnie, who formerly worked at the Oliver China company, but who resigned her position and went to her home in Wellsville, has returned to Sebring and accepted a position in the French China company.

Mr. McCullough, fireman at the Sebring pottery, and his brother George, fireman at the French China company, have left for Missouri, called there by the illness of their mother.

F. W. Fowler, of the Union Potteries company, was in East Liverpool yesterday on business. He arrived here in the afternoon and left for Allegheny on the late train in the evening.

Thomas Croxall will resign his position as handler at the E. M. Knowles pottery tomorrow night and on Monday will accept a similar one at C. C. Thompson's.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Kuckert, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, were in the city yesterday and placed an order for two cars of ware with the National China company.

Miss Stella Johnson has her old place at the Oliver China company in Sebring, after an extended absence in one of the potteries in East Liverpool.

Ed Wyman, a printer at the Sebring pottery, is working out his two weeks' notice. He has accepted a place at Thompson's, East Liverpool.

The ground has been staken out for two new kilns at the C. C. Thompson pottery, and work on the erection of the addition will be started at once.

Reuben Hamilton has resumed his duties at the C. C. Thompson pottery, after being off duty for several days on account of illness.

Miss Irene Bricelin has resigned her position in the glost warehouse at Burford's and accepted a similar one at Knowles'.

Harry Suter has resigned his position in the decorating department of the Dresden and accepted one at E. M. Knowles'.

Blanche Engle, of East Liverpool, has accepted a place with the printers of the Sebring pottery.

Ed Anderson, of Evansville, Ind., has accepted a position as finisher at the Brunt pottery.

Sidney Burchill yesterday accepted a position as turner at E. M. Knowles'.

John Kircher, of Peoria, Ill., has accepted at position at Brunt's.

BALLOON ASCENSION

AT ROCK SPRINGS PARK WITNESSED BY THOUSANDS.

Aeronaut Was Unble to Cut the Parachute Loose, But Alighted Safely on Terra Firma.

Prof. T. H. Kinkade, the aeronaut, who made a balloon ascension at Rock Springs park last evening, failed to make his parachute leap which was to have a part of the exhibition, owing to his inability to cut the contrivance loose from the flying machine.

The ballon started on its aerial trip at 8 o'clock from a point near the roller coaster. It rose several hundred feet, taking a southerly course. When it had reached a proper height to release the parachute, the aeronaut found that some of the ropes were fastened and he was compelled to remain on the trapeze of the balloon, which alighted three miles from the starting point, near the head of Middle creek hollow.

A dense thicket covers the country in that neighborhood, but the aeronaut alighted safely on the ground between two large oak trees. He was uninjured, but much difficulty was experienced in getting the balloon back to the park. Prof. Kinkade will make another ascension Saturday.

An unusually large crowd was present at the park, and hundreds of East Liverpool people witnessed the ascension from the hills on this side of the river.

MORE BUSINESS DONE

Chester Postoffice Since Its Removal Is Prospering—More Mails Wanted.

Since the postoffice has been moved to the center of town the business has increased so that application has been made for another mail from East Liverpool, and one to arrive over the Pan Handle.

Married at Fairview.

Jesse Allison, of Chester and Miss Dora Huff, of Fairview, were married last night at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. D. Hull of Fairview. The contracting parties are well known in Chester and have a host of friends who will wish them much happiness.

Girl Campers Alarmed.

The young ladies who are camping near the park were frightened last night by two young men of Chester who approached the camp. The girls went to a residence nearby and remained over night.

Teacher Chosen.

The teacher for room No. 4, at the new school house has been selected. The lucky young lady was Miss Ruth Baxter.

Chester Council Met.

Council met last night with members Reilly, Cochran and Arner present. No business of importance was transacted.

Six Hundred Picnickers.

DEAD SOLDIERS' WATCH

Property of the Late Arthur Burrows Sent Home to His Brother.

A. C. Burrows, brother of Arthur Burrows, who was killed by the insurgents in the Philippines, this morning received a gold watch and chain and several other articles belonging to the dead man.

The property was sent by Captain C. H. Gardner, of whose company Burrows was a member. There is a difference of opinion as to what disposition was made of the dead soldier's body. His brother in this city is of the opinion that it was burned, since the expedition was many miles from camp when the man was killed, and it would have been impossible to convey his body to a place within the American lines for burial.

The News Review is the largest newspaper published in East Liverpool. It is also the best and most reliable.

FRIENDS AND VISITORS

W. L. Smith is in Chicago on business.

Miss Bessie Martin is ill at her home on Sixth street.

Attorney G. Y. Travis has returned from a visit at Toronto.

Misses Annie and Nora Stevenson left yesterday afternoon for Denver, Col., where they will visit for several weeks.

Mrs. G. B. Miller, of Allegheny and Miss Gertie Mulheim, of West Bridgewater, Pa., are visiting in Chester and East Liverpool.

Mrs. Otto Fish has returned to her home in Wheeling, after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bricelin, College street.

William Fitzgerald left yesterday afternoon for Mt. Clemens. He has been suffering with rheumatism and expects to stay there three weeks in the hope of securing relief.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bagley, who have been at Mt. Clemens for several weeks, returned home yesterday morning. The trip was taken in the hope of benefiting Mr. Bagley's health, but he is not much improved.

Surveying for the B. & O.

Four surveyors in the employ of the B. & O. Railway company arrived in East Liverpool yesterday. They were met by W. H. Crawford, who conveyed the party to Williamsport, from which point they began work today.

Little can be learned regarding the purpose of their visit only that they are again figuring on a route between Smith's Ferry and Lisbon, over which it is now said to be certain the B. & O. company proposes to build a branch.

A LAD'S WILD RIDE

Little Tony Vitale Had an Exciting Experience While on Horseback.

Tony Vitale, a small son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vitale, had an exciting experience while riding a horse up Broadway.

The animal got beyond the lad's control and while it did not run off, gave the boy a bad scare. He loosened his hold of the reins and took hold of the horse's mane. All the way up the street he was crying and yelling for some one to stop the horse.

Several bystanders caught the animal and assisted the lad to the ground. He was not injured, although he came near falling to the pavement several times.

BAD WATER

That of East Liverpool Is Condemned By the State Board of Health.

Columbus, August 2.—(Special)—The annual report of the state board of health was made today, showing Ohio to have had 2,229 cases of smallpox during the year. Cleveland leads in the list with 993 cases and 16 deaths.

An investigation of the water supply shows only a small percentage of the samples submitted to be fit for domestic use. Among the list of the latter class is East Liverpool.

WELLSVILLE

MRS. COLWELL, OF SHORT STREET, FELL DOWN STAIRS.

Her Left Wrist Was Broken And She Received Seveal Bad Bruises.

Mrs. Colwell, residing on Short street, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, Wellsville, met with an accident last evening which nearly resulted fatally. She was doing some work about her home and when about to descend the cellar steps slipped and fell the entire length of the stairway, a distance of about 20 feet, breaking her left wrist. She also sustained several severe bruises.

Mrs. Colwell is a heavy woman and about 50 years old. Her wrist was broken in such a manner that some of the bones extended through the flesh.

An Enjoyable Trolley Ride.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church, of Wellsville, last evening gave a trolley party on the East Liverpool street railway. Car No. 14 was neatly decorated and the ride consisted of a complete tour of the line. The car was in charge of Superintendent Thomas Reed.

Contract for Valves Let.

The Wellsville water works trustees, at a meeting last evening, let the contract for the valves for the new water line to the Cayute Manufacturing company, of Sayre, N. Y., its bid being $1,134. There will be 67 large valves and a large number of smaller ones.

Improvement Promised.

As soon as the construction force of the East Liverpool street railway completes its work on the Grandview extension, the crew will be put to work improving the road along the hill between Wellsville and East Liverpool.

A Porch Party.

Invitations have been issued for a porch party to be given on the evening of August 6 by Miss Grace H. Parke, in honor of Miss Bell, Miss Montgomery, Miss Augustine, of Salem, and Miss Ginnis, of Pittsburg.

Visiting His Old Home.

J. C. Denslow, of Pittsburg, is spending a two weeks' vacation with his parents at Wellsville.

BARBERS TO MEET

JOURNEYMEN WANT AN ORGANIZATION AND MORE PAY.

Claim the Bosses' New Scale Will Deprive Them of Money in the Way of Tips.

An effort will be made this evening to get the journeymen barbers of the city together, looking to the formation of a union.

Ever since a few of the boss barbers determined to raise the prices for the various kinds of work, the journeymen have been agitating the question of a union in order that they may be better able to protect themselves. They claim that, in case the new price list goes into operation, they will be deprived of considerable money in the way of tips for extra attention, and they propose asking for an increase in wages to make up for this amount. The formation of a revised price list is said to have originated with a few of the owners of large shops, and that a great majority of the bosses will have nothing whatever to do with the movement.

The meeting of the journeymen will be held in the shop of Fred Furrer, and a full attendance is expected.

It is said that several physicians have threatened to take action against the barbers who advertise massage baths. The claim is made that no barber in the state of Ohio is authorized to do so, and it is only necessary for the physicians to take action to prevent the massage bath in the barber shop.

The extra charge for neck shaving is the foremost bone of contention and the claim is made by those who do not favor the plan that much trade will thus be driven away.

Gardendale A. C.'s Won.

The Gardendale Athletic club base ball team defeated the Hill Tops last evening in a well played game by a score of 11 to 4. The feature of the game was four home runs made off Bucher. Batteries—Smith and Harris, Bucher and Maley. Any teams wishing a game with the Gardendale team can arrange with Manager Archie Cook, Gardendale.

GENERAL STRIKE

to mean that a balk had been made somewhere. The fight promises to be long drawn out.

Strange as it may seem, an official of the Wellsville lodge made the statement that not an appeal had been made to the local lodge for financial assistance. There is a fair amount of money in the treasury, but the strikers do not desire to use this fund unless it is absolutely necessary.

Since the lodge was organized about 140 members have been enrolled. Of this number it is said 14 members have violated their obligation, having returned to work at the mill. Occasionally new members are obligated, but it is not believed the association will exceed 175 members at any time.

The final arrangements for the big outing which will be given at Rock Springs park tomorrow, have been completed, and the committee say that 4,000 people are expected to visit the park during the day. In Wellsville alone over 2,000 tickets have been sold the money for these having been deposited in the Frst National bank on Wednesday afternoon. Over 1,000 tickets are said to have been sold at East Liverpool, to say nothing of those which have been disposed of in nearby towns, and the paid admissions that will be received at the park gates.

Arrangements have been made for a special train which will arrive in East Liverpool at 10 o'clock Saturday morning from New Castle, Pa., containing mill workers from all the towns in that vicinity. Chairman Eabaugh expects that at least 1,000 excursionists will make the trip.

The Irondale lodge, A. A. I. S. & T. W. with a brass band, will arrive at East Liverpool on the noon train Saturday, word to this effect having been received at headquarters yesterday. In the afternoon the Irondale ball club will play a game on the park grounds with the East Liverpool team. The game was arranged yesterday.

Invitations have been sent to the association lodges at Steubenville and Mingo Junction, and members of these lodges are expected during the day.

Personal letters have been sent to Pittsburg asking President Shaffer and Secretary Williams to visit the Wellsville lodge Saturday, but so far no word has been received from them. It is also expected that Messrs. Morgan, Chappell and Davis, of the Amalgamated Journal, will be present.

The usual number of pickets were on duty yesterday, but no new men were taken into camp. After the trains had left District Organizer Evans went to East Liverpool, but when questioned, his mission was not made known.

CAN'T LOCATE HER

Constable Miller's Search for Mrs. Waters Has as Yet Been Unavailing.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Robert Waters remains a secret. Constable Miller has made a thorough search of the city, but as yet has failed to get any trace of her. Justice McLane was informed yesterday that the entire family had left the city and gone to Sebring, but the constable claims to have received information that Mrs. Waters was at Rock Springs park last night.

It is possible that if the woman remains away from East Liverpool she will not be compelled to appear before the grand jury.

WEST POINT

West Point, Aug. 2.—William Ridgely was the guest of his friend William Boubright last week.

Ed McFarland, of Wampum, will move into the Burnfield property this week.

The Beaver Land company has purchased scales for use in its coal mine, which it is now opening.

DEAD SOLDIERS' WATCH

Property of the Late Arthur Burrows Sent Home to His Brother.

A. C. Burrows, brother of Arthur Burrows, who was killed by the insurgents in the Philippines, this morning received a gold watch and chain and several other articles belonging to the dead man.

The property was sent by Captain C. H. Gardner, of whose company Burrows was a member. There is a difference of opinion as to what disposition was made of the dead soldier's body. His brother in this city is of the opinion that it was burned, since the expedition was many miles from camp when the man was killed, and it would have been impossible to convey his body to a place within the American lines for burial.

The News Review is the largest newspaper published in East Liverpool. It is also the best and most reliable.

Surveying for the B. & O.

Four surveyors in the employ of the B. & O. Railway company arrived in East Liverpool yesterday. They were met by W. H. Crawford, who conveyed the party to Williamsport, from which point they began work today.

Little can be learned regarding the purpose of their visit only that they are again figuring on a route between Smith's Ferry and Lisbon, over which it is now said to be certain the B. & O. company proposes to build a branch.

A LAD'S WILD RIDE

Little Tony Vitale Had an Exciting Experience While on Horseback.

Tony Vitale, a small son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vitale, had an exciting experience while riding a horse up Broadway.

The animal got beyond the lad's control and while it did not run off, gave the boy a bad scare. He loosened his hold of the reins and took hold of the horse's mane. All the way up the street he was crying and yelling for some one to stop the horse.

Several bystanders caught the animal and assisted the lad to the ground. He was not injured, although he came near falling to the pavement several times.

BAD WATER

That of East Liverpool Is Condemned By the State Board of Health.

Columbus, August 2.—(Special)—The annual report of the state board of health was made today, showing Ohio to have had 2,229 cases of smallpox during the year. Cleveland leads in the list with 993 cases and 16 deaths.

An investigation of the water supply shows only a small percentage of the samples submitted to be fit for domestis use. Among the list of the latter class is East Liverpool.

WELLSVILLE

MRS. COLWELL, OF SHORT STREET, FELL DOWN STAIRS.

Her Left Wrist Was Broken And She Received Seveal Bad Bruises.

Mrs. Colwell, residing on Short street, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, Wellsville, met with an accident last evening which nearly resulted fatally. She was doing some work about her home and when about to descend the cellar steps slipped and fell the entire length of the stairway, a distance of about 20 feet, breaking her left wrist. She also sustained several severe bruises.

Mrs. Colwell is a heavy woman and about 50 years old. Her wrist was broken in such a manner that some of the bones extended through the flesh.

An Enjoyable Trolley Ride.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church, of Wellsville, last evening gave a trolley party on the East Liverpool street railway. Car No. 14 was neatly decorated and the ride consisted of a complete tour of the line. The car was in charge of Superintendent Thomas Reed.

Contract for Valves Let.

The Wellsville water works trustees, at a meeting last evening, let the contract for the valves for the new water line to the Cayute Manufacturing company, of Sayre, N. Y., its bid being $1,134. There will be 67 large valves and a large number of smaller ones.

Improvement Promised.

As soon as the construction force of the East Liverpool street railway completes its work on the Grandview extension, the crew will be put to work improving the road along the hill between Wellsville and East Liverpool.

A Porch Party.

Invitations have been issued for a porch party to be given on the evening of August 6 by Miss Grace H. Parke, in honor of Miss Bell, Miss Montgomery, Miss Augustine, of Salem, and Miss Ginnis, of Pittsburg.

Visiting His Old Home.

J. C. Denslow, of Pittsburg, is spending a two weeks' vacation with his parents at Wellsville.

BARBERS TO MEET

JOURNEYMEN WANT AN ORGANIZATION AND MORE PAY.

Claim the Bosses' New Scale Will Deprive Them of Money in the Way of Tips.

An effort will be made this evening to get the journeymen barbers of the city together, looking to the formation of a union.

Ever since a few of the boss barbers determined to raise the prices for the various kinds of work, the journeymen have been agitating the question of a union in order that they may be better able to protect themselves. They claim that, in case the new price list goes into operation, they will be deprived of considerable money in the way of tips for extra attention, and they propose asking for an increase in wages to make up for this amount. The formation of a revised price list is said to have originated with a few of the owners of large shops, and that a great majority of the bosses will have nothing whatever to do with the movement.

The meeting of the journeymen will be held in the shop of Fred Furrer, and a full attendance is expected.

It is said that several physicians have threatened to take action against the barbers who advertise massage baths. The claim is made that no barber in the state of Ohio is authorized to do so, and it is only necessary for the physicians to take action to prevent the massage bath in the barber shop.

The extra charge for neck shaving is the foremost bone of contention and the claim is made by those who do not favor the plan that much trade will thus be driven away.

Gardendale A. C.'s Won.

The Gardendale Athletic club base ball team defeated the Hill Tops last evening in a well played game by a score of 11 to 4. The feature of the game was four home runs made off Bucher. Batteries—Smith and Harris, Bucher and Maley. Any teams wishing a game with the Gardendale team can arrange with Manager Archie Cook, Gardendale.

to mean that a balk had been made somewhere. The fight promises to be long drawn out.

Strange as it may seem, an official of the Wellsville lodge made the statement that not an appeal had been made to the local lodge for financial assistance. There is a fair amount of money in the treasury, but the strikers do not desire to use this fund unless it is absolutely necessary.

Since the lodge was organized about 140 members have been enrolled. Of this number it is said 14 members have violated their obligation, having returned to work at the mill. Occasionally new members are obligated, but it is not believed the association will exceed 175 members at any time.

The final arrangements for the big outing which will be given at Rock Springs park tomorrow, have been completed, and the committee say that 4,000 people are expected to visit the park during the day. In Wellsville alone over 2,000 tickets have been sold the money for these having been deposited in the Frst National bank on Wednesday afternoon. Over 1,000 tickets are said to have been sold at East Liverpool, to say nothing of those which have been disposed of in nearby towns, and the paid admissions that will be received at the park gates.

Arrangements have been made for a special train which will arrive in East Liverpool at 10 o'clock Saturday morning from New Castle, Pa., containing mill workers from all the towns in that vicinity. Chairman Eabaugh expects that at least 1,000 excursionists will make the trip.

The Irondale lodge, A. A. I. S. & T. W. with a brass band, will arrive at East Liverpool on the noon train Saturday, word to this effect having been received at headquarters yesterday. In the afternoon the Irondale ball club will play a game on the park grounds with the East Liverpool team. The game was arranged yesterday.

Invitations have been sent to the association lodges at Steubenville and Mingo Junction, and members of these lodges are expected during the day.

Personal letters have been sent to Pittsburg asking President Shaffer and Secretary Williams to visit the Wellsville lodge Saturday, but so far no word has been received from them. It is also expected that Messrs. Morgan, Chappell and Davis, of the Amalgamated Journal, will be present.

The usual number of pickets were on duty yesterday, but no new men were taken into camp. After the trains had left District Organizer Evans went to East Liverpool, but when questioned, his mission was not made known.

CAN'T LOCATE HER

Constable Miller's Search for Mrs. Waters Has as Yet Been Unavailing.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Robert Waters remains a secret. Constable Miller has made a thorough search of the city, but as yet has failed to get any trace of her. Justice McLane was informed yesterday that the entire family had left the city and gone to Sebring, but the constable claims to have received information that Mrs. Waters was at Rock Springs park last night.

It is possible that if the woman remains away from East Liverpool she will not be compelled to appear before the grand jury.

BODIES ON GALLOWS,

Seen by a Woman In Mountain Underbrush, Near Cumberland, Md.

3 MEN WITH WACON PRESENT.

They Were Engaged In Cutting Down the Corpses—Another Woman Saw Them—Officers Found the Gallows and Wagon Tracks.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 2.—This city has been in a high state of excitement, caused by a woman named Mrs. Ida Johnson, who rushed into town, found her way to the city police station, where she asked for a private conference with the chief. There she explained that while picking blackberries on the mountain, on the outskirts of this place, she came suddenly upon three men with a two-horse wagon in the dense undergrowth. To her horror she discovered that they were engaged in cutting down the bodies of a man and a woman, who were hanging from a gallows-like arrangement attached to two trees.

Instantly there was excitement at police headquarters and a force of policemen followed the woman's lead to the scene of the alleged crime. When they came to the spot that she pointed out they were amazed to find the gallows and wagon tracks. They followed the train of the heavy wagon for several miles until they were unable to go any further on account of the thick growth of underbrush.

In the absence of the state's attorney, Judge Boyd had the woman swear to her statement, and directed that the sheriff summon a posse to go in pursuit of the wagon. That officer was out of town and was not to return until late last night, when it was presumed he would follow the direction of the court.

Last night it was learned that the woman's statement was verified by that of another woman, who says she was also on the mountain and saw the same sight, and was so badly frightened that she fell in her flight and spilled all of her berries. Mrs. Johnson described the three men, whom she stated were all heavily bearded and wore straw hats. She also described how the corpses were dressed, and stated that they were bodies of aged people. In this connection the police stated that it is remembered an aged man and woman were seen walking in the direction of the mountain about 3 o'clock Thursday morning.

Nearly 1,000 people have visited the scene. No one was ever known to drive a team where the gallows-like arrangement is erected.

BOERS ACCUSED OF MURDERS.

Kitchener Reports Charges of Murdering Natives and a Wounded British Soldier.

London, Aug. 2.—A dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria, Thursday, says:

"French reports that he has received a letter from Kritzinger (a Boer commander) announcing his intention to shoot all natives in British employ, whether armed or unarmed. Many cases of cold-blooded murder of natives in Cape Colony have recently occurred."

Another dispatch from Lord Kitchener, from Petroria, dated Thursday, says:

"On July 28 an officer's patrol of 20 yeomanry and some native scouts followed two carts and a few Boers 15 miles from the railway at Doorn river, Orange River colony, where they were cut off by 200 Boers, and, after defending themselves in a small building, they surrendered when their ammunition was exhausted. Three yeomen were wounded. After the surrender the Boers made the native scouts throw their hands up and shot them in cold blood. They afterwards shot a wounded yeoman. The remainder were released. The Boers gave as a reason for shooting the yeoman that they thought he was a Cape "boy." Evidence on oath has been taken of the murders."

FOR COAST ARTILLERY.

American Clay Manufacturing Company Increases Capital And Gets Two Big Brick Plants.

Pittsburg, August 2.—The American Clay Manufacturing company, of this city, will shortly begin the manufacture of clay products on a large scale. While several of the plants of the company now exclusively manufacture brick, the company will go into the manufacture of other specials in clay to a large extent. The present plants will be improved and another large plant will shortly be erected on the company's property below Coraopolis. Plans for this plant are now being prepared.

The company has increased its capital stock from $700,000 to $1,050,000, and has absorbed the assets of the Pittsburg Brick company and the Boulevard Brick company, also of Pittsburg. The increase of capital stock was for the purpose of absorbing these two companies and to build plants for the manufacture of fireproofing, terra cotta and underground conduits.

The company lately made an issue of bonds, which were quickly taken up as soon as it was known that they were in the market. To cover this bond issue a mortgage of $350,000 was given. This mortgage was recorded yesterday. The deal for the two plants absorbed by the American Clay Manufacturing company is reported to have been in progress for some time, but the fact has not been generally known. Their possession now gives the American Clay Manufacturing company what it has been after for some time—two of the largest brick plants in the country.

American Clay Manufacturing Company Increases Capital And Gets Two Big Brick Plants.

Pittsburg, August 2.—The American Clay Manufacturing company, of this city, will shortly begin the manufacture of clay products on a large scale. While several of the plants of the company now exclusively manufacture brick, the company will go into the manufacture of other specials in clay to a large extent. The present plants will be improved and another large plant will shortly be erected on the company's property below Coraopolis. Plans for this plant are now being prepared.

The company has increased its capital stock from $700,000 to $1,050,000, and has absorbed the assets of the Pittsburg Brick company and the Boulevard Brick company, also of Pittsburg. The increase of capital stock was for the purpose of absorbing these two companies and to build plants for the manufacture of fireproofing, terra cotta and underground conduits.

The company lately made an issue of bonds, which were quickly taken up as soon as it was known that they were in the market. To cover this bond issue a mortgage of $350,000 was given. This mortgage was recorded yesterday. The deal for the two plants absorbed by the American Clay Manufacturing company is reported to have been in progress for some time, but the fact has not been generally known. Their possession now gives the American Clay Manufacturing company what it has been after for some time—two of the largest brick plants in the country.

CHAPTER XVI.

A problem that had worried "Cat" was just how he should treat Langdon when he came to camp. It was the duty of officers visiting within its limits to call upon the commander unless they happened to be his senior in rank. But "Cat" went further. He considered it to be the duty of even civilians to show their appreciation of his station, a case of mistaken judgment, since the average American civilian shows respect to nobody except a woman, and not too much to her. "Cat" considered that Langdon would call, accompanied by Melville, when he could invite them both to dine. But Langdon didn't come and didn't call. He had been bidden to spend a week with Melville and go with him and a party on a four days' picnic in the hills. Langdon's answer reached Melville the day before the start. He would join them on the picnic, but as yet thought best not to visit camp. Melville's orderly met him with a spare horse at War Bonnet Station, and a day's ride northward by way of Buffalo Gap brought him at sunset into the midst of a joyous gathering. Woodrow and Rodney May had even galloped out ten miles to meet and guide him in.

"It's just our own crowd, Eric!" said Rodney joyously. "We'd be like old times if we only had Hurricane here." And Langdon, who somehow had half expected to find Santley and possibly Channing of the party, felt instant sense of relief, yet hardly liked to own it even to himself. Santley he cared little about, but Channing had stood his friend and served him well. Why should he not have welcomed Channing's presence? Why should he secretly rejoice that Channing was not here?

With the old accustomed salute and with joy in their honest eyes a brace of battery men sprang to aid him as the little party dismounted in a lovely glade among the crested hills. White tents gleamed among the pines in the setting sun. Dogs and children, with loud acclaim, came tumbling to meet him. Melville, glad and genial, linked his arm in that of his guest and led him to the campfire. Two sturdy young Melvilles climbed and twined about his legs and beat him lustily upon the back as the ladies arose to greet him, Mrs. Melville with frankly extended hand, while Ethel Grahame, looking the picture of health and serenity in a jersey waist and Tam O'Shanter, clamped a huge earthen bowl in one rounded arm and presented a spoonful of sirup, her soft cheek dimpling, her white teeth gleaming between the ripe red lips. Langdon bowed over Mrs. Melville's hand and bent both knees in abortive attempt to sip the contents of the spoon, a difficult feat without the aid of the youngsters and one that only resulted on their part in a climbing race for his back and on his to still further prostration. It was just as well for Channing's peace of mind that he had not been included in the family plan. It might have been better had not that plan likewise omitted Santley, who had found means to get away from battery duties and to take the 30 mile ride into the heart of the hills on the trail of his hopes and, sitting in saddle at the edge of the glade, to look on at this pretty picture and then turn and curse the folly that had led him thither. Others might welcome Langdon; he could and would not. Neither could he spend the night, as he had planned, in Melville's camp. In bitterness of spirit he rode back a dozen miles to a miner's cabin, and Torrance was his confidant when at noon next day he returned to duty and reported what he had seen.

They all came tumbling to meet Langdon

Five evenings later the whole command, six troops of horses and two field batteries, were grooming at the picket ropes along under the edge of the mesa, and Torrance, in natty undress uniform, riding whip in hand, was sauntering up and down watching the work of his men, when he became aware of eager glances and mutterings. The tap, tap of currycomb and brush went on as steadily, but heads kept bobbing up and gazing over the brown backs of his strong gun teams, and, glancing about to see what it meant, Torrance became aware of a sight that sent him presently to the opposite side of his line. Strolling down the slope, talking volubly, came the colonel, his dogs tumbling about him, as usual, his orderly following primly at his allotted distance. Melville, calm, courteous and dignified as ever, listening with all outward appearance of serene interest on one side, and on the other, lithe, spare and erect, lookingly marvelously unlike the sad, jaded, hopeless man who left their midst the second year before, clad now in trim camping garb, strode Eric Langdon. When D battery broke ranks half an hour later, three rousing cheers rang out on the evening air, and Torrance sent for his first sergeant.

"What made the men cheer?" he asked, and the sergeant was imperturbable.

"I couldn't say, sir. They just broke out when we broke ranks. Reckon they felt good, sir."

"Look here, Sergeant Flynn," said Torrance, "men don't cheer in unison without somebody to give the word. Who gave it and what for?"

"Sergeant Ramsey gave it, sir. He didn't say what for."

"He didn't have to," was what the veteran was within an inch of saying.

"This thing's got to stop," said Torrance sternly. "You know as well as I it was because of—of Mr. Langdon's being here, and such demonstrations are disrespectful to the colonel."

"The colonel didn't hear it, sir. He'd gone home."

"He'll hear of it and hold me responsible," said Torrance angrily. "Not only that, but I observed men saluting when they spoke to Mr. Langdon. That's all wrong."

The battery sergeant ground his heels together and his teeth, but held his peace.

"You know, a dismissed officer's entitled to no such honors," said Torrance. "Just order it stopped. You may go." And Flynn turned away, thinking things he could not say.

Langdon spent that night at Melville's tent and was to leave for the railway after breakfast in the morning. Before breakfast he and Ethel Grahame were strolling slowly up the shaded pathway in the north ravine. The brook came tumbling down its rocky bed to their right, and half a mile out they met a little squad of battery men, with the familiar "D" upon their hats. They were carrying tempting little strings of trout. Two of them glanced at Langdon, reddened, half raised their right hands, dropped them and gazed awkwardly away. They were his own old men. Then they met a third, who looked squarely at him and raised his hat as courteously as a Virginian and stood aside to let them by. A few rods farther on two others, fishing from the bank, turned and gazed, then glanced quickly at each other and exchanged grins. These last were strangers—men who had come into the battery after he had left it, a rather ill favored pair. There was no reason why they should salute; there were reasons why they should not. But, on the other hand, a courteous and respectful demeanor should have been observed if for no other reason than the presence of a woman, a member of the major's household. But it pleased these two young cubs, only recently from the streets of some eastern city, to titter audibly and follow the pair with impertinent glances. Langdon could not but see it, and his soul rose up in wrath. Miss Grahame, too, had not failed to notice a thing so utterly unlike the pleased, smiling manner of the veteran soldiers whenever the garrison ladies happened to pass their way. Eager to dissemble, as though she had not seen, Ethel plunged instantly into enthusiastic comment on the view before them. It was indeed a lovely scene, but Langdon's soul was hot within him. The indignity was as much to her as to him. He half turned, as though intending to step back and accost them. She read his purpose and with quick movement placed herself before him.

"Oh, just look at that vine!" she cried, pointing to a climbing plant among the rocks across the tumbling brook, then, all smiling confidence, beamed upon the fishing twain. "Oh, could you reach me a spray of that? I'll thank you so much."

No answer. With broad, blue flannel backs ostentatiously turned toward the speaker, the two young fellows hung their heads, slyly glanced at each other and giggled again. It was more than Langdon could stand. Springing past her, standing stunned and aggrieved at such boorishness—the first and only evidence of ill will she ever saw among the soldiery—he was upon them in an instant.

"Out of the way, you hulking brutes!" he ordered, low and stern, as he laid a heavy hand on the shoulder of the nearest.

WELLSVILLE GETS A TIP

Two Men Accosted By Guards This Morning Proved to Be Union Tin Workers—Strikers Going to Other Mills—Strike Three Weeks Old.

Pittsburg August 2.—(Special)—Though the advisory board of the Amalgamated Association is still in session, the impression prevails that instead of considering the terms of the steel trust any longer, the men are talking over the plans for a general strike. The board has been unable to accept the terms of Mr. Morgan and cannot secure any concessions.

"Surrender or fight" seems to be the cry of the trust, and the iron workers will take the last named, though it may mean the ruin of the union.

At Wellsville this morning the only occurrence out of the ordinary was the apprehension of two workmen who got off the 10 o'clock train and passed up through the town while waiting for the train to proceed down the river at noon. The two workmen had the appearance of being mill men, and they were soon surrounded by the pickets, who were at the train, with a number of potters from East Liverpool, and the new arrivals were closely questioned.

Their debate was cut short, however, for the men proved to be tinners and displayed union cards. That was all the pickets had to do with the men and they were taken to headquarters, where they were entertained until the train went down the river.

A colored man was accosted by the strikers shortly before noon and asked if he was a mill worker. He proved that he was not and was permitted to pass on.

A telephone message was received at headquarters this morning from Pittsburg, stating that a crew of seven workmen were bound to the Wellsville mill and were expected to reach here today. This caused the pickets to watch all the trains, but up to the hour of going to press no new men had arrived. It was stated that this crew was the one that was expected to arrive from Vandergrift, Pa., last Tuesday.

The force of pickets for the afternoon train was to be augmented for the East Liverpool station, as the men were expected on the train.

Quite a number of men who were employed in Wellsville before the strike will leave Monday morning for Pittsburg and Youngstown, where they have taken positions in independent mills. A list of these men will be prepared Saturday evening, as it is desired to have the addresses of the men before they leave town.

Some of the strikers are anxious to secure a position for Lemuel Shaffer, one of the recent acquisitions to the union. He came to Wellsville from a trip of several weeks' duration last Monday and while at the station is said to have been offered a position at the Wellsville mill as a heater. He refused the offer and immediately afterwards joined the ranks of the strikers. His wife has been under the care of a physician for several weeks. It is the intention of the men to obtain him employment as soon as possible. It is probable he will be located at the new Birmingham mill at Pittsburg, in which a number of Wellsville workmen will start work next week.

Several mill men will start to work at the Liverpool potteries next week, employment having been promised them a few days ago.

A number of the strikers have already secured work, and now that more men are expected to leave the city the question arises what will become of the pickets. This question was asked Organizer Griffiths this morning. He said that if the Wellsville men secured work elsewhere new union men would be sent to the town by headquarters to look after any union men that might be imported. He said all trains will be watched at all times until the strike is settled one way or the other.

It is thought possible that the officials of the mill are playing a waiting game and after more workmen leave the town new men would be sent to Wellsville to take the place of the strikers.

The strike will be three weeks old tomorrow.

Some of the Wellsville strikers do not believe the struggle they are now passing through will be settled soon. They say that matters have gone too far, and that the speedy stage of settlement is past. This is the sentiment expressed by one of the strikers last evening. Reports from the conference at Pittsburg received at Wellsville yesterday were to the effect that some of the members were not in attendance, and this was taken by some

BARREL OF WHISKEY

THE CAUSE OF TWO LAW SUITS IN LOCAL COURTS.

One of the Cases Promises Some Interesting Developments—Set for Monday Morning.

H. D. Huffman, proprietor of the Washington hotel, has instituted a suit in replevin in Justice McCarron's court against Constable C. D. Powell to recover a barrel of whisky which was levied on by the defendant to satisfy a claim of one of Hughes' creditors, who filed an attachment suit against him.

Huffman alleges that he is the owner of the whisky in question and that he placed it in Hughes' places of business for him to dispose of. Constable Miller served the papers on Constable Powell. The case will be heard August 10.

Another case in which a barrel of whisky is the bone of contention was filed last evening in Justice Rose's court. G. W. Meredith & Co. are the plaintiffs and Harry Hughes the defendant. The case is a peculiar one and it is difficult to conjecture what the developments will bring out.

The allegation is made that Hughes sold a barrel containing about 35 gallons of whisky to H. D. Huffman for $42 on July 31, after the constable had levied on the goods of Hughes to satisfy the claim against him of Meredith & Co. The suit now brought is for the purpose of recovering from Huffman the $42, which he agreed to pay Hughes for the whisky. A garnishee was issued by Justice Rose to prevent Hoffman paying the amount until the case has been tried. It is set for Monday morning.

OF INTEREST TO THE PUBLIC

East Liverpool's Largest and Best Newspaper Now Has a Circulation of 1,775 Copies Daily, Its Patronage Having More Than Doubled in Five Months.

Affidavits which tell their own story of the splendid progress which the Evening News Review is making are printed below. They show that when the present proprietors assumed control of the paper on March 1, 1901, just five months ago, the total number of copies printed in a day was 877. Today there are 1,825 copies printed. Deducting for exchanges and papers gratuitously distributed, the bonafide daily circulation is 1,775, or more than double what it was on the first of March. More than this, the size of the paper has been twice enlarged during that time, its news-gathering facilities increased and corresponding improvements made in every department. The record of growth and steady increase in popular favor which this paper has had and which it continues to enjoy is one which is unmatched in the history of jouralism in East Liverpool and which has rarely been equaled by any newspaper published in any city of the size of this one. The reason is readily apparent. The Evening News Review is clean, honest and enterprising. It covers the home field far more fully than any other paper. It is not only the largest and handsomest of the local papers, but the newsiest and best.

Its circulation has not stopped growing nor is it likely to do so. While East Liverpool lives and thrives this paper will keep pace with its progress. It is the journal which meets the wants of the public and it is therefore the favorite.

OGLEMAN NOT THE AGGRESSOR

Two Sides to the Story Concerning the Assault Made on Fred Grim.

ACCUSED BOY ARRESTED

Taken Before Acting Mayor McLane When He Denied Charges Made By Grim—Paid a Small Fine—Grim to Be Arrested.

George Ogleman, the colored lad of the East End, who was alleged to have attacked Fred Grim with a stake Wednesday evening without cause, and for whom a warrant was subsequently issued in the mayor's court, was given a hearing last night.

The young man was arrested by Officer Stafford while at work in the East End. He made no attempt at resistance and denied that he had been in hiding.

Ogleman is only 16 years of age and has always borne a reputation as an inoffensive and hard-working lad. Several of his fellow workmen accompanied him to the mayor's office and corroborated the story he told to Acting Mayor McLane.

The boy did not deny that he struck Grim with the stake, but claimed he acted in self-defense. The cause, he said, was that Grim threw a brick on Ogleman's hand, mashing one of his fingers. The colored lad claims he made no attempt to retaliate until later when Grim called him a vile name and threatened to crush his head with a brick. Then, he stated, he clinched with Grim and threw him down, when his antagonist began to bite him and finally sank his teeth into Ogleman's leg.

A grade stake was lying close by, and picking it up, the colored boy began using it on Grim's head to make him quit biting. He says he did not strike hard, as he had no desire to inflict any serious injury, but as the stake was sharp on the corners, it penetrated the scalp. He denies that Grim was rendered unconscious.

So straightforward did the accused

TO ABOLISH BELL ON THE CITY HALL

Movement Being Instituted Which Will Likely Do Away With the Relic.

DECLARED A NUISANCE

By the Firemen And Many of the City Officials—Gets Out of Repair And Is Not Reliable in Sounding Alarms.

The bell on the city hall, which for 20 years has served in almost as many capacities, will doubtless be abolished within a short period and used only on occasions of a special nature. While it may require the sanction of council to do away with the use of the bell for its present purposes, it is certain the matter will be taken before that body if it becomes necessary.

One of the reasons for the movement being instituted lies in the fact that the bell is virtually a nuisance. The electric connections with it are constantly getting out of repair and the city firemen have been put to no end of trouble in keeping the apparatus in working order. Perhaps the greatest of the many faults found with the bell is that it frequently causes misunderstandings by sounding alarms of fires at times when there is no occasion for it. Only a few days ago an alarm of fire was given, the bell having been set in motion by a telephone wire which became crossed with the department's wire.

Its use as a curfew amounts to little or nothing, as not one of a dozen of the children of the city ever hear it. Even the officers pay little attention to the bell, but depend on their watches to tell them when to look after the youngsters who remain about the streets after the time they are supposed to be at home.

The necessity of the bell ringing at the noon hour is of such little importance as to be unworthy of notice. Scores of whistles on the different factories about town keep the citizens informed as to the time to eat dinner, and clocks are now so cheap that very few families are without them.

It is also argued that even if the bell was correct in sounding alarms of fire, it need not be in use, as it simply tends to create excitement and in nowise benefits the people. The city officials consider that it is of no value and look upon the necessity of keeping the time-worn relic in repair as being almost ridiculous.

It is certain that if the matter should be left to the firemen to decide it would soon cease to be in use and most assuredly "curfew would not ring tonight."

PEOPLE HAD TO WALK

STREET CARS STOPPED WHEN PARKS WERE CROWDED.

Broken Machinery at the Power House Caused Inconvenience to the Public.

There was trouble at the power house of the East Liverpool Street Railway company last evening, the power being off almost four hours. This was caused by the equalizer on the governor breaking.

The accident occurred just at a time when travel on both lines was heavy, and without question the companies lost considerable money as a result of the break. Parts of the broken machinery were taken to a local machine shop, where temporary repairs were made, after which a new equalizer was ordered from St. Louis by telegraph. This is expected to arrive this evening and will be placed on the engine during the night.

Not only was the East Liverpool line tied up, but also the East Liverpool and Rock Springs line. Large crowds were at the Chester and Columbian parks, but after they underderstood the situation no complaints were made. At Rock Springs many telephoned to East Liverpool and had hacks sent to the park, while others walked home. The break was more serious than has occurred for several months, but today the company made arrangements to be prepared for such an accident in the future.

Lisbon, August 2.—(Special)—Marriage licenses have been issued to John G. Lewis, Jr., and Cora J. Mills, and Homer L. Lewis and Maggie Belle Reed, all of Wellsville; John Everth and Anna Schuler, Salem.

WEEK'S PROGRAM MOST COMPLETE

It Will Be Sent to the State Headquarters Within a Few Days.

NEW PLAN FOR REGISTERING

The General Committee Met Last Evening With All Members Present, And the Reports Made Showed the Members Had Not Been Idle.

When the general committee of arrangements of the Jr. O. U. A. M. met last evening to close up the details for the reception and entertainment of the delegates to the coming state convention there was a full representation and much interest manifest.

The committee on badges and souvenirs reported that an appropriate design had been selected and that the badges were expected this week.

The entrtainment committee has arranged for the use of Rock Springs park on Tuesday evening, September 10, and an excellent program is now being arranged. It is likely a part of Wednesday will be given over to a visit through the potteries.

A few sub-committees were appointed to look after several small matters, and they are expected to go to work at once.

Chairman Anderson, of the reception committee, has about completed arrangements for the care of his department of the work. A feature which will save a great deal of confusion is the plan suggested by Mr. Anderson to have every delegate upon reaching the city go at once to the convention hall and register his name and number and location of his council. The Daughters of America have also adopted the same plan.

The committee representing the Daughters of America will meet next Wednesday evening to complete the details for the reception and entertainment of their delegates. This committee is composed of Mrs. Marion Lowery, chairman, and Mrs. Ed Chandler, Miss Rachel Grafton, Ella Wycoff, Kate Baxter, Tillie Duncan, Mrs. Homer Owen.

The representatives of the auxiliary and the committees of the Juniors will act in conjunction, and when they have finished their work it is expected that nothing will be overlooked.

There yet remain a few details to complete, and it will be several days before the program is ready for the public.

HEIR TO MILLIONS

SELLS OUT HIS CLAIM FOR THE SUM OF $30.

Jonathan Whitacre, of Hanoverton, Evidently Tired of Waiting for an English Fortune.

Lisbon, August 2.—(Special)—Jonathan Whitacre, of Hanoverton, one of the legal heirs of Edward Whitacre, of England, has sold one-fourth of his interest in the estate, to James L. Estep for $30.

The Whitacre estate is said to be worth several million dollars. A great deal of time and money have been spent by the American heirs in trying to get it. It does not appear what share of the estate Jonathan Whitacre is entitled to.

The agreement between Estep and Whitacre is filed in the recorder's office.

A man named Whitacre, who is a preacher, has spent several months here looking up records. He has also made trips to England on the matter.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS HELD

Officials Chosen for the Knights of Columbus—Will Go to Steubenville.

At the meeting of the local council, Knights of Columbus, held last evening, special elections were held to fill three unexpired terms. J. H. Grafton was made Grand Knight, J. J. Weisend was elected to the position of Deputy Grand Knight and Charles L. Gallaher was chosen advocate.

It was decided to take part in the joint meeting to be held at Steubenville September 22.

At this meeting all three degrees will be conferred by councils from Dennison, Wheeling, East Liverpool, Wellsville and other points.

EAST END

CROWDS DISAPPOINTED

No Moving Pictures at Columbian Park, on Account of No Electric Power.

Owing to the accident at the power house last evening it was impossible for the Passion Play moving pictures to be presented at Columbian park last evening, as was proposed. The picture machinery is operated by electricity, and just when the current was about to be turned on the break occurred. After the situation was understood those present were told of the accident and that no representation of the play could be given.

The grand stand was almost taxed to its capacity, and to those who had purchased reserved seats new checks were given, they being asked to return this evening. Extra cars were placed on the road, being operated from the Diamond, and these were well filled when going to the park. In fact, the attendance on the opening night was larger than was expected.

NEW CARS WILL BE BIGGER

Will Also Have Greater Horse Power And Can Run Faster.

The new cars for the East Liverpool Street Railway company, which are expected here soon, will be the fastest on the road. Upon their arrival they will be in readiness to be placed on the road, the motors and trucks being placed under the body at the factory. There will be four motors under these cars, having a combined force of 140 horse-power. Each motor will be 35 horse-power.

The cars will be 28 feet long, which is eight feet longer than any other car now owned by the company. They will each have a seating capacity of about 70 persons.

Postal Receipts Fell Off.

The report of the business of the East End postoffice for the month of July was completed last evening by Postmaster William E. Baird. A decrease in the receipts over the preceding month is noted. The receipts from the sale of stamps and wrappers amounted to $139.92, while the money order business amounted to about $1,200. This is a decrease of about $300 over the reports of the two preceding months.

New Car May Run Sunday.

It will be several days before the new double truck car will be placed on the East Liverpool street railway line. The trial trip over the entire road yesterday was highly satisfactory to the officials, and this morning a force of carpenters were placed at work making im provements to the body of the car. It is probable, said Superintendent Reed, that the car will be operated on Sunday.

Repairing a Damaged Car.

Carpenters are making repairs on the freight car of the East Liverpool street railway line which was damaged in an accident on Franklin street several days ago. It will be necessary to make a complete new vestibule for this car, the old one being damaged so that it could not be used.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Miss Mary Thompson, of the East End, is visiting friends at Smith's Ferry.

The trolley wire on Mulberry street, near the railroad crossing, was repaired this morning.

Several small real estate deals are pending in the East End, two of which, it is said, will be closed tomorrow evening. These sales are for building lots.

Mrs. W. W. Maxwell, of Carbon Black, near Butler, Pa., is a guest at the home of T. O. Terrence, Ravine street. She is the mother of Captain Terrence, of the East End fire station.

Contractor McLaughlin has a large force of men at work making the fill about the abutments for the new bridge, which will span Dry Run in the East End. It will be several weeks before the contract is completed.

PARK SCHEME DEAD

An Alliance Project That Promised Much Will Not Be Carried Out.

According to an Alliance paper the scheme to build the much-talked-of park between Alliance and Sebring has followed in the trail of the recently projected cross-county railway between East Liverpool and Salem. The Review says:

C. B. Kennerdell, the originator and promoter of the Kendale park, has gone out of the park business. His decision to give up the establishment of a beautiful park in Bluebell swamp with a $10,000 hotel, mammoth dancing pavilion, ball grounds, summer theater, driving park, electric yachts, Egyptian bridges, etc., was aided by Constable Jim Brown, of Sebring, at the instance of some 24 laborers, who had been engaged to clear up the grounds, and who failed to receive anything more than promises for their labor on Saturday evening. Kennerdell promised to pay Monday and then Tuesday, and Wednesday he left for Salem without paying, and the men could not wait longer.

When he started in he had $30,000 (so he said) to spend on the grounds and now he looks like 30 cents. He had plenty of beer, but no boodle, and the cold grasping man who dug up stumps all day wanted boodle. The Pennsylvania company will not build the hotel nor will the street railway company pay nickels to land their passengers there. The park bubble busted.

The grounds of which a park was to be made are not paid for—only $200 having been paid for an option which is good until the eighth of this month.

AN UNEQUALED RECORD

There Is a Rapidly Increasing Volume of East Liverpool Evidence Rolling Up for the Great Medicine, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

It would seem that hardly anyone can take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet, who are in a weak, rundown condition is the talk of every place they are known. It is only a short time since they first came to East Liverpool, yet today they are more in evidence for merit with East Liverpool people than all other medicines combined.

Mr. B. L. Updegraff, of No. 169 Fifth street East Liverpool, O., says: "As a general and nerve tonic I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. I was at the time feeling run down and nervous—not up to the mark in health and needed a tonic. The medicine did its work nicely and I regained tone, strength and energy again."

Feared Opponents to Unionism In Combine Have Upperhand.

THE STRIKE MAY SPREAD.

Believed Men In Other Mills of U. S. Steel Corporation May Be Called Out—As Far as Made Public, No Reply Was Received From Morgan.

Pittsburg, Aug. 2.—Unless some word is received from the officials of the United States Steel corporation soon the steel workers' strike may become the greatest that has ever marked the history of the Amalgamated association. No reply to the request of the association had come last night. The executive board waited until 6:30 o'clock for a message from Mr. Morgan. After the members left the executive officers remained in the headquarters until nearly 8 o'clock, still hoping that some word would reach them there. Then they went home.

There is little attempt on the part of the members of the board to conceal their chagrin and disappointment over the present state of affairs. When the conference was called to take up Mr. Morgan's propositions it was fully expected that the strike would soon be over, and the strained relations between the workers and the manufacturers ended. It was supposed, they say, that the spirt of conciliation that had been manifested by the general officers of the steel trust was genuine. The unaccountable silence that has marked the New York office of the trust since the workers sent their message on Tuesday night has caused surprise. It is now feared that the element in the official family of the United States Steel corporation that is antagonistic to organized labor has secured full sway and that it will be impossible to secure an adjustment of the difficulties pending without further struggles and a bitter war between the workers and the manufacturers.

More Critical Than Ever.

Information of the most reliable nature was secured that the officials of the Amalgamated association regard the strike situation as more critical now than at any other time. Matters have gone so far that the executive board has begun to consider plans for renewing the battle with greater force and energy than ever, extending the strike into every union mill owned or controlled by the United States Steel corporation and bringing every possible influence to bear on the heads of the trust in order to bring about a settlement on what they consider reasonably fair terms. It is impossible to secure this, they say, without a conference with the heads of the operating departments of the companies that have become involved in the strike. It was plainly intimated that the propositions of Mr. Morgan and his associates, while bearing on their face evidences of peace, lacked plain statements regarding the position of the union men in their relations to the trust mills. Details of the utmost importance to the organized men were omitted and would have to be arranged for through direct dealings with the operating department of the trust, before any agreement could be put in force.

Attended a Big Meeting.

One of the most significant actions of the Amalgamated officials in view of this critical situation was the attendance of practically all the vice presidents now in Pittsburg at a mass meeting of the strikers of the Painter mill of the American Steel Hoop company. The meeting was held in Metropolitan hall, in Steuben street, West End, last night. It was largely attended, and addresses were made by all of the officials present. The men on strike were enthusiastic and greeted the vice presidents with much warmth. Nothing of importance was developed during the meeting, but the workers were urged to stand firm and keep away from the mills pending a settlement of the difficulties. The utmost confidence was expressed in the final outcome of the strike and it was declared that if the battle was to be continued, the same results would be obtained in the end.

There was a strong rumor about the workers' headquarters last night that a message had been received from New York. This message was said, however, to be unsatisfactory. President Shaffer said that he had nothing to give out, however. He declined to discuss any of the features of the strike, but maintained an apparent feeling of hopefulness when talking to the newspaper men. After President Shaffer left his office he disappeared suddenly from view. It is believed that he met some of the officials of the United States Steel trust who were in Pittsburg. Who these were could not be learned.

It was rumored late last night that President Charles M. Schwab, of the United States Steel corporation, was in Pittsburg. It was said that he had left New York for the west. So far as could be learned, Mr. Schwab did not arrive on any of the trains from the east and was not in any of the hotels or clubs in the city. Joseph E. Schwab, assistant to the president, had been in Pittsburg for the past two days.

THIEVES WERE DEFIED; MILL WAS BURNED.

Orleans, Ind., Aug. 2.—Heise & Sons' flouring mill at Saltillo, about nine miles east of here, was destroyed by fire. Several days ago the proprietors of the mill found a note, informing them that unless they put a certain sum of money in a sack and left it at a given point their mill would be burned. A sack filled with buggy washers was deposited and men lay in wait several hours, but no person approached the sack. It disappeared shortly, however, and the mill was burned to the ground.

PROSPEROUS SEBRING

"Our town is an illustration of the advantages of a protective tariff," said J. E. Finney, a commercial traveler of Sebring, to a Washington Post man, "at least so far as protection to the pottery industry is concerned, and this is true of the entire Ohio valley, with East Liverpool as a center. Two years ago the site of Sebring was a cultivated wheat field. Today it is a thriving community with a population of more than 2,500. When the McKinley bill was passed only 30 per cent of the porcelain used in the United States was of home manufacture.

"Protective tariff gave the first great stimulus to the industry, and now 70 per cent of the pottery used in the United States is produced in our own country. There are now 49 potteries, most of them the largest in the United States, in the Ohio valley, all in the president's old congressional district. Sebring is in Mahoning county, in which the president was born, about 20 miles east of Canton. The town was established by the five brothers forming the Sebring Manufacturing company, and is a more modern community than Pullman. Porcelain goods only are manufactured there, nearly all the residents having some connection with the business.

"The manufacturers laid out the streets, planted shade trees, built a $15,000 church for employes and installed the water works and electric light plant, purchasing 1,500 acres for the city and selling off lots as an encouragement to employes to own their own homes. There are no company stores similar to those found in many other so-called 'model' manufacturing communities resulting from the development of large industrial enterprises."

HARRY C. MASON DEAD.

He Was Formerly Speaker of Ohio House of Representatives.

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—A telegram from Prescott, Ariz., announced the death there of Harry C. Mason, formerly speaker of the Ohio house of representatives and a well-known attorney of this city. He became prominent as a leader in the anti-Hanna senatorial fight in 1898, while he was the presiding officer of the lower house.

Not long after the close of the session of the legislature Mason's health failed and he withdrew from politics, as well as from the practice of the law. Death was due to consumption. Deceased was 34 years of age.

OUST NEGRO FROM POLITICS

Declared Purpose, if Successful, of Maryland Democrats, In Their Platform Adopted.

Baltimore, Aug. 2.—The Democratic state convention declared that the purpose of the party, if sucessful in the coming election, is to elimnate the negro from politics in Maryland if such a thing be possible under the constitution of the state. Upon this the paramount issue of the campaign will stand the candidates nominated for state offices and those chosen in the various county and district conventions as candidates for places in the legislature of 1902, which body will elect a United States senator to succeed George L. Wellington. That his sucessor, in the event of Democratic victory, will be Arthur Pue Gorman is settled beyond question, although no formal announcement of his candidacy has as yet been made.

The other planks in the platform reaffirm the devotion of the local party to the principles enunciated by Thomas Jefferson; assert that Democratic control is necessary to the welfare of the state; commend the administration of John Walter Smith as governor; pledge the party to amend the oyster and school laws in such manner as may seem proper; declare the course of the governor in calling a special session of the legislature and the action of that body in passing laws to limit the exercise of the right of franchise to those who are able to read and write to be patriotic in the extreme; denounce the federal authorities for frauds in irregularities in the late federal census; commend the state authorities for the manner in which a recount of the people was made, and pledge the party to the adoption of such laws as will make the primary elections as fair as those held under the general election laws.

For the offices of controller and clerk of the court of appeals Dr. Joshua W. Hering, of Carroll, and J. Frank Turner, of Talbot, were nominated to succeed themselves.

ARMY TRANSPORT DISABLED.

Was Drifting at Mercy of Winds—Tug Went to Search For Her—Volunteers Left Her to Get Aid.

San Francisco, Aug. 2.—The transport Lennox is disabled and, as far as known here, drifting at the mercy of wind and sea, some 300 miles southwest of San Francisco, while her passengers and crew are on short rations waiting for assistance.

The big army tug Slocum left to search for the crippled steamer. Volunteers from the transport picked up at sea brought the news.

PUBLIC APPRECIATION.

The News Review today prints a statement that will interest its friends and patrons. The affidavits on our first page show that the daily circulation of this paper has more than doubled in the five months ending August 1. That circulation is mainly in East Liverpool—a fact that advertisers who wish to make their announcements where their customers and neighbors will see them will appreciate. That they do appreciate it is shown by the condition of our advertising columns, which are crowded with the announcements of the business men of this city. The News Review is a home newspaper. It covers the home field more fully and more satisfactorily than any other journal. That explains its phenomenal growth. That growth has not stopped; it has merely got a good start. New subscribers are being added daily, and there is room for all who come. Enterprise, reliability and progress are its characteristics. Watch it grow!

ART IN ADVERTISING.

London would seem to be a good field for an enterprising newspaper. There are great journals there, but they are run to suit the proprietors rather than their patrons. This is illustrated by an agitation which is now on to induce them to discontinue their antiquated style of printing advertising matter. The merchants who buy advertising space contend that they should have something to say as to the type to be used and the style in which it should be set to make it attractive. But the newspaper proprietors reply that it would "Americanize" their columns, and that would be something dreadful. From the typographical appearance of even the best of the London papers there is no printer who would not acknowledge that a little Americanizing and modernizing would do them good.

Art in advertising has reached a higher development in this country than anywhere else in the world. The advertising pages of some of the popular mazagines, for example, are by no means among the least interesting and attractive features of their contents. The same is true of the newspapers. A paper which should attempt to get along without advertisements would be stale, flat and unprofitable. The public does a deal of buying and it looks to the newspapers for news about the class of goods it wants to buy. The merchant who succeeds in making his invitation to buyers most attractive will attract most customers. On this subject the Chicago Record Herald says:

"The genius and cleverness of the American advertiser have revolutionized commerce and industry. It is today the most striking feature of American ascendancy in the world of trade. The creation and invention of new advertising ideas and schemes for placing the merits of new commodities before the consuming classes is a profession that now engages some of the best talent in the land. It is an American art, full of the dynamics of twentieth century commercial prowess. Even London cannot resist it; she must finally surrender."

THE ISSUE IN MARYLAND.

The paramount issue in the political campaign in Maryland the coming fall, according to the Democrats of that state, is the disfranchisement of 60,000 negro voters. It is so proclaimed in the platform adopted at the state convention, and a dispatch from Baltimore states that there was not a dissenting vote, the shameless proposal being received with applause and every evidence of cordial approcal. The success of the Democrats at the polls, as they themselves declare, means that a large body of its citizens shall have no voice in the state's affairs.

The fact that the proposition is to defy and annul the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States does not worry these Marylanders. They respect the federal law so long as it does not interfere with their own wishes and inclinations and no longer. The most illiterate white man in Maryland—and there are many such there—can exercise the right of suffrage, while the most intelligent and best educated negro cannot. This is the decree which these friends of human liberty propose to put into effect. Should they attempt to carry out their purpose it would appear that it is time to settle the question whether the laws of the nation or the dictates of Maryland Democratic leaders are supreme.

President McKinley will attend the G. A. R. encampment. His heart is with his old comrades, and his presence among them will contribute not a little to the success of the veterans' gathering.

In Mississippi they have now taken to lynching women. There is no need for missionaries to go abroad in search of heathen.

For the time being, the weather grumbler's occupation is gone.

GLEANINGS of the Day —In and about the— Local POTTERIES.

Evert Rose, an employe of the Wallace & Chetwynd pottery, is being guyed unmercifully by his fellow workmen at present. Yesterday afternoon he discovered something out in the river and thought he would investigate it. He secured a skiff and started out, but when about 50 yards from the thing thought he had better not venture too close and threw a club. Returning to the plant he told the boys that it was some kind of an animal and John Stoffel and Irwin Allison took the skiff and went out to it. Upon reaching the supposed animal they discovered that it was nothing more than a log which some one had anchored in the river.

Work at the Lisbon pottery is rapidly progressing, and the plant will soon be ready for operation. The east section, which is two stories high, is now ready for the roof, and the middle part will be one story high, and it almost ready to roof. The west end of the building will be three stories and the workmen are now laying brick on the second story. The big boilers and engines have arrived and also considerable other stuff, including moulds for making ware. The straw house, which is a frame building, has been completed, and is a structure about 60 feet in length. The molds will be made in this building pending the completion of the pottery plant.

A company to manufacture pottery in New Castle, Pa., has been formed. The capital stock is $100,000. Among the stockholders are J. P. H. Cunningham, E. I. Phillips, Wm. G. Dunn, Andrew Fleckinstein, Captain M. S. Marquis, Edward Norris, William Marquis, all of that city, and H. B. Harvard, of East Liverpool.

A number of girls have made application for admission to the potters' local union at Sebring, now that they are admitted on an equality with the men. Several names will be acted upon at the next regular meeting.

Miss Ella Binnie, who formerly worked at the Oliver China company, but who resigned her position and went to her home in Wellsville, has returned to Sebring and accepted a position in the French China company.

Mr. McCullough, fireman at the Sebring pottery, and his brother George, fireman at the French China company, have left for Missouri, called there by the illness of their mother.

F. W. Fowler, of the Union Potteries company, was in East Liverpool yesterday on business. He arrived here in the afternoon and left for Allegheny on the late train in the evening.

Thomas Croxall will resign his position as handler at the E. M. Knowles pottery tomorrow night and on Monday will accept a similar one at C. C. Thompson's.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Kuckert, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, were in the city yesterday and placed an order for two cars of ware with the National China company.

Miss Stella Johnson has her old place at the Oliver China company in Sebring, after an extended absence in one of the potteries in East Liverpool.

Ed Wyman, a printer at the Sebring pottery, is working out his two weeks' notice. He has accepted a place at Thompson's, East Liverpool.

The ground has been staken out for two new kilns at the C. C. Thompson pottery, and work on the erection of the addition will be started at once.

John O'Malley, a ware handler at the French Chican company, Sebring, had the thumb of his left hand badly smashed while at work.

Reuben Hamilton has resumed his duties at the C. C. Thompson pottery, after being off duty for several days on account of illness.

Miss Irene Bricelin has resigned her position in the glost warehouse at Burford's and accepted a similar one at Knowles'.

Harry Suter has resigned his position in the decorating department of the Dresden and accepted one at E. M. Knowles'.

Blanche Engle, of East Liverpool, has accepted a place with the printers of the Sebring pottery.

Ed Anderson, of Evansville, Ind., has accepted a position as finisher at the Brunt pottery.

Sidney Burchill yesterday accepted a position as turner at E. M. Knowles'.

John Kircher, of Peoria, Ill., has accepted at position at Brunt's.

SOUTH SIDE

BALLOON ASCENSION

AT ROCK SPRINGS PARK WITNESSED BY THOUSANDS.

Aeronaut Was Unble to Cut the Parachute Loose, But Alighted Safely on Terra Firma.

Prof. T. H. Kinkade, the aeronaut, who made a balloon ascension at Rock Springs park last evening, failed to make his parachute leap which was to have a part of the exhibition, owing to his inability to cut the contrivance loose from the flying machine.

The ballon started on its aerial trip at 8 o'clock from a point near the roller coaster. It rose several hundred feet, taking a southerly course. When it had reached a proper height to release the parachute, the aeronaut found that some of the ropes were fastened and he was compelled to remain on the trapeze of the balloon, which alighted three miles from the starting point, near the head of Middle creek hollow.

A dense thicket covers the country in that neighborhood, but the aeronaut alighted safely on the ground between two large oak trees. He was uninjured, but much difficulty was experienced in getting the balloon back to the park. Prof. Kinkade will make another ascension Saturday.

An unusually large crowd was present at the park, and hundreds of East Liverpool people witnessed the ascension from the hills on this side of the river.

MORE BUSINESS DONE

Chester Postoffice Since Its Removal Is Prospering—More Mails Wanted.

Since the postoffice has been moved to the center of town the business has increased so that application has been made for another mail from East Liverpool, and one to arrive over the Pan Handle.

Married at Fairview.

Jesse Allison, of Chester and Miss Dora Huff, of Fairview, were married last night at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. D. Hull of Fairview. The contracting parties are well known in Chester and have a host of friends who will wish them much happiness.

Girl Campers Alarmed.

The young ladies who are camping near the park were frightened last night by two young men of Chester who approached the camp. The girls went to a residence nearby and remained over night.

Teacher Chosen.

The teacher for room No. 4, at the new school house has been selected. The lucky young lady was Miss Ruth Baxter.

Chester Council Met.

Council met last night with members Reilly, Cochr[illegible] and Arner present. No business of importance was transacted.

Six Hundred Picnickers.

Six hundred people are in attendance at the New Cumbesland Union Sunday School picnic at the park today.

CHESTER NEWS NOTES.

Mrs. J. Shanley of New Cumberland ie the guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Allison.

Charles Metts of Gavers, O., is in Chester the guest of his brother William.

The following is the list of uncalled for letters at the postoffice for July: Bessie Marchitt, 2, Luke Bowe, Charles A. Smith, Machison Poliver. Misses Blanche Morrow, Katie A. Peck, Sara Adams and W. H. Podmore.

DEAD SOLDIERS' WATCH

Property of the Late Arthur Burrows Sent Home to His Brother.

A. C. Burrows, brother of Arthur Burrows, who was killed by the insurgents in the Philippines, this morning received a gold watch and chain and several other articles belonging to the dead man.

The property was sent by Captain C. H. Gardner, of whose company Burrows was a member. There is a difference of opinion as to what disposition was made of the dead soldier's body. His brother in this city is of the opinion that it was burned, since the expedition was many miles from camp when the man was killed, and it would have been impossible to convey his body to a place within the American lines for burial.

The News Review is the largest newspaper published in East Liverpool. It is also the best and most reliable.

FRIENDS AND VISITORS

W. L. Smith is in Chicago on business.

Miss Bessie Martin is ill at her home on Sixth street.

Mrs. Otto Fish has returned to her home in Wheeling, after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bricelin, College street.

William Fitzgerald left yesterday afternoon for Mt. Clemens. He has been suffering with rheumatism and expects to stay there three weeks in the hope of securing relief.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bagley, who have been at Mt. Clemens for several weeks, returned home yesterday morning. The trip was taken in the hope of benefiting Mr. Bagley's health, but he is not much improved.

Surveying for the B. & O.

Four surveyors in the employ of the B. & O. Railway company arrived in East Liverpool yesterday. They were met by W. H. Crawford, who conveyed the party to Williamsport, from which point they began work today.

Little can be learned regarding the purpose of their visit only that they are again figuring on a route between Smith's Ferry and Lisbon, over which it is now said to be certain the B. & O. company proposes to build a branch.

A LAD'S WILD RIDE

Little Tony Vitale Had an Exciting Experience While on Horseback.

Tony Vitale, a small son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vitale, had an exciting experience while riding a horse up Broadway.

The animal got beyond the lad's control and while it did not run off, gave the boy a bad scare. He loosened his hold of the reins and took hold of the horse's mane. All the way up the street he was crying and yelling for some one to stop the horse.

Several bystanders caught the animal and assisted the lad to the ground. He was not injured, although he came near falling to the pavement several times.

BAD WATER

That of East Liverpool Is Condemned By the State Board of Health.

Columbus, August 2.—(Special)—The annual report of the state board of health was made today, showing Ohio to have had 2,229 cases of smallpox during the year. Cleveland leads in the list with 993 cases and 16 deaths.

An investigation of the water supply shows only a small percentage of the samples submitted to be fit for domestis use. Among the list of the latter class is East Liverpool.

WELLSVILLE

MRS. COLWELL, OF SHORT STREET, FELL DOWN STAIRS.

Her Left Wrist Was Broken And She Received Seveal Bad Bruises.

Mrs. Colwell, residing on Short street, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, Wellsville, met with an accident last evening which nearly resulted fatally. She was doing some work about her home and when about to descend the cellar steps slipped and fell the entire length of the stairway, a distance of about 20 feet, breaking her left wrist. She also sustained several severe bruises.

Mrs. Colwell is a heavy woman and about 50 years old. Her wrist was broken in such a manner that some of the bones extended through the flesh.

An Enjoyable Trolley Ride.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church, of Wellsville, last evening gave a trolley party on the East Liverpool street railway. Car No. 14 was neatly decorated and the ride consisted of a complete tour of the line. The car was in charge of Superintendent Thomas Reed.

Contract for Valves Let.

The Wellsville water works trustees, at a meeting last evening, let the contract for the valves for the new water line to the Cayute Manufacturing company, of Sayre, N. Y., its bid being $1,134. There will be 67 large valves and a large number of smaller ones.

Improvement Promised.

As soon as the construction force of the East Liverpool street railway completes its work on the Grandview extension, the crew will be put to work improving the road along the hill between Wellsville and East Liverpool.

A Porch Party.

Invitations have been issued for a porch party to be given on the evening of August 6 by Miss Grace H. Parke, in honor of Miss Bell, Miss Montgomery, Miss Augustine, of Salem, and Miss Ginnis, of Pittsburg.

Visiting His Old Home.

J. C. Denslow, of Pittsburg, is spending a two weeks' vacation with his parents at Wellsville.

BARBERS TO MEET

JOURNEYMEN WANT AN ORGANIZATION AND MORE PAY.

Claim the Bosses' New Scale Will Deprive Them of Money in the Way of Tips.

An effort will be made this evening to get the journeymen barbers of the city together, looking to the formation of a union.

Ever since a few of the boss barbers determined to raise the prices for the various kinds of work, the journeymen have been agitating the question of a union in order that they may be better able to protect themselves. They claim that, in case the new price list goes into operation, they will be deprived of considerable money in the way of tips for extra attention, and they propose asking for an increase in wages to make up for this amount. The formation of a revised price list is said to have originated with a few of the owners of large shops, and that a great majority of the bosses will have nothing whatever to do with the movement.

The meeting of the journeymen will be held in the shop of Fred Furrer, and a full attendance is expected.

It is said that several physicians have threatened to take action against the barbers who advertise massage baths. The claim is made that no barber in the state of Ohio is authorized to do so, and it is only necessary for the physicians to take action to prevent the massage bath in the barber shop.

The extra charge for neck shaving is the foremost bone of contention and the claim is made by those who do not favor the plan that much trade will thus be driven away.

Gardendale A. C.'s Won.

The Gardendale Athletic club base ball team defeated the Hill Tops last evening in a well played game by a score of 11 to 4. The feature of the game was four home runs made off Bucher. Batteries—Smith and Harris, Bucher and Maley. Any teams wishing a game with the Gardendale team can arrange with Manager Archie Cook, Gardendale.

to mean that a balk had been made somewhere. The fight promises to be long drawn out.

Strange as it may seem, an official of the Wellsville lodge made the statement that not an appeal had been made to the local lodge for financial assistance. There is a fair amount of money in the treasury, but the strikers do not desire to use this fund unless it is absolutely necessary.

Since the lodge was organized about 140 members have been enrolled. Of this number it is said 14 members have violated their obligation, having returned to work at the mill. Occasionally new members are obligated, but it is not believed the association will exceed 175 members at any time.

The final arrangements for the big outing which will be given at Rock Springs park tomorrow, have been completed, and the committee say that 4,000 people are expected to visit the park during the day. In Wellsville alone over 2,000 tickets have been sold the money for these having been deposited in the Frst National bank on Wednesday afternoon. Over 1,000 tickets are said to have been sold at East Liverpool, to say nothing of those which have been disposed of in nearby towns, and the paid admissions that will be received at the park gates.

Arrangements have been made for a special train which will arrive in East Liverpool at 10 o'clock Saturday morning from New Castle, Pa., containing mill workers from all the towns in that vicinity. Chairman Eabaugh expects that at least 1,000 excursionists will make the trip.

The Irondale lodge, A. A. I. S. & T. W. with a brass band, will arrive at East Liverpool on the noon train Saturday, word to this effect having been received at headquarters yesterday. In the afternoon the Irondale ball club will play a game on the park grounds with the East Liverpool team. The game was arranged yesterday.

Invitations have been sent to the association lodges at Steubenville and Mingo Junction, and members of these lodges are expected during the day.

Personal letters have been sent to Pittsburg asking President Shaffer and Secretary Williams to visit the Wellsville lodge Saturday, but so far no word has been received from them. It is also expected that Messrs. Morgan, Chappell and Davis, of the Amalgamated Journal, will be present.

The usual number of pickets were on duty yesterday, but no new men were taken into camp. After the trains had left District Organizer Evans went to East Liverpool, but when questioned, his mission was not made known.

CAN'T LOCATE HER

Constable Miller's Search for Mrs. Waters Has as Yet Been Unavailing.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Robert Waters remains a secret. Constable Miller has made a thorough search of the city, but as yet has failed to get any trace of her. Justice McLane was informed yesterday that the entire family had left the city and gone to Sebring, but the constable claims to have received information that Mrs. Waters was at Rock Springs park last night.

It is possible that if the woman remains away from East Liverpool she will not be compelled to appear before the grand jury.

BODIES ON GALLOWS,

Seen by a Woman In Mountain Underbrush, Near Cumberland, Md.

3 MEN WITH WAGON PRESENT.

They Were Engaged In Cutting Down the Corpses—Another Woman Saw Them—Officers Found the Gallows and Wagon Tracks.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 2.—This city has been in a high state of excitement, caused by a woman named Mrs. Ida Johnson, who rushed into town, found her way to the city police station, where she asked for a private conference with the chief. There she explained that while picking blackberries on the mountain, on the outskirts of this place, she came suddenly upon three men with a two-horse wagon in the dense undergrowth. To her horror she discovered that they were engaged in cutting down the bodies of a man and a woman, who were hanging from a gallows-like arrangement attached to two trees.

Instantly there was excitement at police headquarters and a force of policemen followed the woman's lead to the scene of the alleged crime. When they came to the spot that she pointed out they were amazed to find the gallows and wagon tracks. They followed the train of the heavy wagon for several miles until they were unable to go any further on account of the thick growth of underbrush.

In the absence of the state's attorney, Judge Boyd had the woman swear to her statement, and directed that the sheriff summon a posse to go in pursuit of the wagon. That officer was out of town and was not to return until late last night, when it was presumed he would follow the direction of the court.

Last night it was learned that the woman's statement was verified by that of another woman, who says she was also on the mountain and saw the same sight, and was so badly frightened that she fell in her flight and spilled all of her berries. Mrs. Johnson described the three men, whom she stated were all heavily bearded and wore straw hats. She also described how the corpses were dressed, and stated that they were bodies of aged people. In this connection the police stated that it is remembered an aged man and woman were seen walking in the direction of the mountain about 3 o'clock Thursday morning.

Nearly 1,000 people have visited the scene. No one was ever known to drive a team where the gallows-like arrangement is erected.

BOERS ACCUSED OF MURDERS.

Kitchener Reports Charges of Murdering Natives and a Wounded British Soldier.

London, Aug. 2.—A dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria, Thursday, says:

"French reports that he has received a letter from Kritzinger (a Boer commander) announcing his intention to shoot all natives in British employ, whether armed or unarmed. Many cases of cold-blooded murder of natives in Cape Colony have recently occurred."

Another dispatch from Lord Kitchener, from Petroria, dated Thursday, says:

"On July 28 an officer's patrol of 20 yeomanry and some native scouts followed two carts and a few Boers 15 miles from the railway at Doorn river, Orange River colony, where they were cut off by 200 Boers, and, after defending themselves in a small building, they surrendered when their ammunition was exhausted. Three yeomen were wounded. After the surrender the Boers made the native scouts throw their hands up and shot them in cold blood. They afterwards shot a wounded yeoman. The remainder were released. The Boers gave as a reason for shooting the yeoman that they thought he was a Cape "boy." Evidence on oath has been taken of the murders."

FOR COAST ARTILLERY.

Gen. Miles Issued Order For Organizing Nine Companies.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Lieutenant General Miles, commanding the army, issued an order for the immediate organization of nine additional companies of coast artillery, making the total number of such companies 106. The number is limited by law to 126. The new companies, with their commanding officers, will be stationed as follows:

Ninety-eighth company, Captain Hamilton Rowan, Fort Hamilton, N. Y.

Ninety-ninth company, Captain William P. Pence, Fort Morgan, Ala.

One hundredth company, Captain D. A. Allman, Fort Totten, N. Y.

One hundred and first company, Captain A. T. Smith, Fort Toten, N. Y.

One hundred and second company, Captain R. F. Gardner, Fort Caswell, N. C.

One hundred and third company, Captain John C. Gilmore, Jr., Fort Howard, Md.

One hundred and fourth company Captain George H. McManus, Fort Washington, Md.

One hundred and fifth company, Captain L. R. Burgess, at the Presidio, of San Francisco.

One hundred and sixth company, Captain Charles P. Summerall, at Fort Lawton, Wash.

Big Grant to Roberts.

American Clay Manufacturing Company Increases Capital And Gets Two Big Brick Plants.

Pittsburg, August 2.—The American Clay Manufacturing company, of this city, will shortly begin the manufacture of clay products on a large scale. While several of the plants of the company now exclusively manufacture brick, the company will go into the manufacture of other specials in clay to a large extent. The present plants will be improved and another large plant will shortly be erected on the company's property below Coraopolis. Plans for this plant are now being prepared.

The company has increased its capital stock from $700,000 to $1,050,000, and has absorbed the assets of the Pittsburg Brick company and the Boulevard Brick company, also of Pittsburg. The increase of capital stock was for the purpose of absorbing these two companies and to build plants for the manufacture of fireproofing, terra cotta and underground conduits.

The company lately made an issue of bonds, which were quickly taken up as soon as it was known that they were in the market. To cover this bond issue a mortgage of $350,000 was given. This mortgage was recorded yesterday. The deal for the two plants absorbed by the American Clay Manufacturing company is reported to have been in progress for some time, but the fact has not been generally known. Their possession now gives the American Clay Manufacturing company what it has been after for some time—two of the largest brick plants in the country.

A SUSPECT CAUGHT

Who Is Accused of the Attack on Miss Blackburn at Steubenville.

Steubenville, August 2.—After a silence of nearly 110 hours Miss Sarah Blackburn has finally recovered her speech. She is the girl who claims burglars ran a needle down her throat. A young man suspected of the crime is under arrest. He says his name is Ed Croxall, but his right name is said to be John Tomes. He hails from Tiffin, where he is said to have had a part in several robberies. He will be held until Miss Blackburn is able to appear at the hearing to see if she can identify him.

Ten Years' Trial

The Story of a Soldier's Struggle

CHAPTER XVI.

A problem that had worried "Cat" was just how he should treat Langdon when he came to camp. It was the duty of officers visiting within its limits to call upon the commander unless they happened to be his senior in rank. But "Cat" went further. He considered it to be the duty of even civilians to show their appreciation of his station, a case of mistaken judgment, since the average American civilian shows respect to nobody except a woman, and not too much to her. "Cat" considered that Langdon would call, accompanied by Melville, when he could invite them both to dine. But Langdon didn't come and didn't call. He had been bidden to spend a week with Melville and go with him and a party on a four days' picnic in the hills. Langdon's answer reached Melville the day before the start. He would join them on the picnic, but as yet thought best not to visit camp. Melville's orderly met him with a spare horse at War Bonnet Station, and a day's ride northward by way of Buffalo Gap brought him at sunset into the midst of a joyous gathering. Woodrow and Rodney May had even galloped out ten miles to meet and guide him in.

"It's just our own crowd, Eric!" said Rodney joyously. "We'd be like old times if we only had Hurricane here." And Langdon, who somehow had half expected to find Santley and possibly Channing of the party, felt instant sense of relief, yet hardly liked to own it even to himself. Santley he cared little about, but Channing had stood his friend and served him well. Why should he not have welcomed Channing's presence? Why should he secretly rejoice that Channing was not here?

With the old accustomed salute and with joy in their honest eyes a brace of battery men sprang to aid him as the little party dismounted in a lovely glade among the crested hills. White tents gleamed among the pines in the setting sun. Dogs and children, with loud acclaim, came tumbling to meet him. Melville, glad and genial, linked his arm in that of his guest and led him to the campfire. Two sturdy young Melvilles climbed and twined about his legs and beat him lustily upon the back as the ladies arose to greet him. Mrs. Melville with frankly extended hand, while Ethel Grahame, looking the picture of health and serenity in a jersey waist and Tam O'Shanter, clamped a huge earthen bowl in one rounded arm and presented a spoonful of sirup, her soft cheek dimpling, her white teeth gleaming between the ripe red lips. Langdon bowed over Mrs. Melville's hand and bent both knees in abortive attempt to sip the contents of the spoon, a difficult feat without the aid of the youngsters and one that only resulted on their part in a climbing race for his back and on his to still further prostration. It was just as well for Channing's peace of mind that he had not been included in the family plan. It might have been better had not that plan likewise omitted Santley, who had found means to get away from battery duties and to take the 30 mile ride into the heart of the hills on the trail of his hopes and, sitting in saddle at the edge of the glade, to look on at this pretty picture and then turn and curse the folly that had led him thither. Others might welcome Langdon; he could and would not. Neither could he spend the night, as he had planned, in Melville's camp. In bitterness of spirit he rode back a dozen miles to a miner's cabin, and Torrance was his confidant when at noon next day he returned to duty and reported what he had seen.

Five evenings later the whole command, six troops of horses and two field batteries, were grooming at the picket ropes along under the edge of the mesa, and Torrance, in natty undress uniform, riding whip in hand, was sauntering up and down watching the work of his men, when he became aware of eager glances and mutterings. The tap, tap of currycomb and brush went on as steadily, but heads kept bobbing up and gazing over the brown backs of his strong gun teams, and, glancing about to see what it meant, Torrance became aware of a sight that sent him presently to the opposite side of his line. Strolling down the slope, talking volubly, came the colonel, his dogs tumbling about him, as usual, his orderly following primly at his allotted distance. Melville, calm, courteous and dignified as ever, listening with all outward appearance of serene interest on one side, and on the other, lithe, spare and erect, lookingly marvelously unlike the sad, jaded, hopeless man who left their midst the second year before, clad now in trim camping garb, strode Eric Langdon. When D battery broke ranks half an hour later, three rousing cheers rang out on the evening air, and Torrance sent for his first sergeant.

"What made the men cheer?" he asked, and the sergeant was imperturbable.

"I couldn't say, sir. They just broke out when we broke ranks. Reckon they felt good, sir."

"Look here, Sergeant Flynn," said Torrance, "men don't cheer in unison without somebody to give the word. Who gave it and what for?"

"Sergeant Ramsey gave it, sir. He didn't say what for."

"He didn't have to," was what the veteran was within an inch of saying.

"This thing's got to stop," said Torrance sternly. "You know as well as I it was because of—of Mr. Langdon's being here, and such demonstrations are disrespectful to the colonel."

"The colonel didn't hear it, sir. He'd gone home."

"He'll hear of it and hold me responsible," said Torrance angrily. "Not only that, but I observed men saluting when they spoke to Mr. Langdon. That's all wrong."

The battery sergeant ground his heels together and his teeth, but held his peace.

"You know, a dismissed officer's entitled to no such honors," said Torrance. "Just order it stopped. You may go." And Flynn turned away, thinking things he could not say. Langdon spent that night at Melville's tent and was to leave for the railway after breakfast in the morning. Before breakfast he and Ethel Grahame were strolling slowly up the shaded pathway in the north ravine. The brook came tumbling down its rocky bed to their right, and half a mile out they met a little squad of battery men, with the familiar "D" upon their hats. They were carrying tempting little strings of trout. Two of them glanced at Langdon, reddened, half raised their right hands, dropped them and gazed awkwardly away. They were his own old men. Then they met a third, who looked squarely at him and raised his hat as courteously as a Virginian and stood aside to let them by. A few rods farther on two others, fishing from the bank, turned and gazed, then glanced quickly at each other and exchanged grins. These last were strangers—men who had come into the battery after he had left it, a rather ill favored pair. There was no reason why they should salute; there were reasons why they should not. But, on the other hand, a courteous and respectful demeanor should have been observed if for no other reason than the presence of a woman, a member of the major's household. But it pleased these two young cubs, only recently from the streets of some eastern city, to titter audibly and follow the pair with impertinent glances. Langdon could not but see it, and his soul rose up in wrath. Miss Grahame, too, had not failed to notice a thing so utterly unlike the pleased, smiling manner of the veteran soldiers whenever the garrison ladies happened to pass their way. Eager to dissemble, as though she had not seen, Ethel plunged instantly into enthusiastic comment on the view before them. It was indeed a lovely scene, but Langdon's soul was hot within him. The indignity was as much to her as to him. He half turned, as though intending to step back and accost them. She read his purpose and with quick movement placed herself before him.

"Oh, just look at that vine!" she cried, pointing to a climbing plant among the rocks across the tumbling brook, then, all smiling confidence, beamed upon the fishing twain. "Oh, could you reach me a spray of that? I'll thank you so much."

No answer. With broad, blue flannel backs ostentatiously turned toward the speaker, the two young fellows hung their heads, slyly glanced at each other and giggled again. It was more than Langdon could stand. Springing past her, standing stunned and aggrieved at such boorishness—the first and only evidence of ill will she ever saw among the soldiery—he was upon them in an instant.

"Out of the way, you hulking brutes!" he ordered, low and stern, as he laid a heavy hand on the shoulder of the nearest.
